Will be One of 2 or 3 in State Included in $1 Million Program

The Fox Cities area will be one of two, or possibly three, areas in the state to be studied under a $1 million urban studies grant to the University of Wisconsin by the Ford Foundation.

This was revealed Thursday by Dr. L. H. Adolfson, dean of the university's extension division, to Fox Cities leaders meeting at the Appleton city hall.

The Milwaukee metropolitan area is the other region selected for study under the grant. If a third area is included, it probably will be Madison.

Personnel making the Fox valley part of the study will be headquartered at the new UW extension center being built between Appleton and Menasha, Dr. Adolfson said. The study will be conducted over five years, and no allocation of money to the various areas has been made.

Actually, the university's board of regents has not yet accepted the grant. It is meeting in Madison today, and is expected to formally accept the gift Saturday.

Begins New Era
Dr. Adolfson said the Ford Foundation grant could mark the beginning of a new era in the university's history in which it will be more "urban oriented" than in the past. He likened this development to the university's world-renowned work in agriculture and rural studies during the past half century through its college of agriculture and agricultural extension division, although he added the parallel is not perfect.

Most of the discussion Thursday centered around what area should be included in the Fox valley study. Dr. Adolfson said university

Money Disappeared

Clerk Faces Charge of Quarter Million Theft

New York — Charles A. Willis, a Wall Street mail clerk accused of stealing nearly half a million dollars from his employer, sat in jail today for failure to dig up $25,000 for his bond.

Authorities said Willis claimed most of the half million was gone but professed inability to say where.

At his arraignment yesterday on a grand larceny charge, Willis waived a hearing. His case will go directly to a grand jury.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Jerome Kidder reported to Magistrate Milton Solomon on an astonished tone that the 56-year-old defendant "says he just can't account for the bulk of the money." Kidder added: "In fact, he says he doesn't even know what happened

Inject 3 Names For Primary in New Hampshire

Rockefeller Listed In Addition to Nixon and Kennedy

Concord, N.H. — The names of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller (R-N.Y.) were injected into New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary today.

Enthusiastic supporters of Kennedy entered him in the popularity poll section of the March 8 balloting, which will provide the first clue to voter sentiment in this presidential election year. Kennedy also filed a slate of delegate candidates pledged to vote for him at the Democratic national convention.

At the same time, several backers of Vice President Nixon filed as candidates for seats at the Republican nominating convention. Their names will be listed in the GOP delegate contest as "favorable to Nixon."

Formal Entry Tomorrow
Nixon forces plans to enter his name in the preference poll tomorrow — the vice president's forty-seventh birthday.

Meanwhile, in another major development that could mean trouble for Nixon, several pro-Rockefeller Republicans leaped into the GOP delegate battle by filing for convention seats as "favorable to the New York governor."

They said Republicans ought to have a chance to choose between Nixon and Rockefeller despite the fact that Rockefeller says he will not fight the vice president for the GOP presidential nomination.

A person whose name is filed as a candidate in the popularity poll has the right, within 10 days, to order it withdrawn. Additionally, his permission is required for a convention delegate candidate to run as "pledged" to him. No permission is needed for a delegate hopeful to run as "favorable" to the candidate.

Confesses Guilt In Rape-Slaying

Norristown, Pa. — A 39-year-old paroled sex offender, Elmo Smith, admitted today that he raped and then beat to death a 16-year-old Philadelphia school girl. Her bruised body was found in a muddy gully in a nearby Whitmarsh township Dec. 30.

He pleaded guilty on arraignment before Justice of the Peace Louis Hoffman of Whitmarsh township. He was held without bail on a murder charge.

Bernard E. DiJoseph, Montgomery county district attorney, said Smith had signed a confession.

The murder charge was lodged by Chief Edgar E. Mitchell of the Whitmarsh township police force.

Pickets, Police Clash At Neenah Foundry

A Plaid Coated Worker walks between two lines of policemen to enter the strike-bound Neenah Foundry company plant early this morning. Thirty-five policemen from Neenah, Menasha and Winnebago county were on hand to keep order while non-union production employees entered. One Neenah policeman was hurt and a Winnebago county policeman received tear gas in his eyes as police used tear gas to restore order.

Two Injured; Tear Gas Brings Order

Neenah—Police and pickets clashed this morning at the Neenah Foundry company plant where Local 121 of the International Molders and Factory Workers union is on strike.

Two policemen were injured. Enforcement officials had to use tear gas to restore order.

Seriously hurt was Durward Breaker, 35, of 965 Higgins avenue, who, along with several other policemen, was attempting to clear a path to the plant door through several hundred pickets.

Wilbur Fuller, Oshkosh, a county policeman, was treated for tear gas burns to his eyes.

Treated at Theda Clark hospital along with the two policemen was one of the strikers, Russell Tollard, 40, route 4, Oshkosh, who suffered a chest bruise. He was released after treatment.

Another striker, Clarence Schafer, was shaken up and taken home.

Thirty-two uniformed Neenah, Menasha and Winnebago county policemen and three members of the sheriff's department in plain clothes were on hand at 6 a.m. to escort from half a dozen to 20 non-union production workers into the plant. They were directed by Sheriff Charles Lowry and Police Chief Irving H. Stilt.

Brute Force
Union officials charged police with using brute force. "We were picketing orderly until police arrived to use tear gas and brute force," Owen Dalton, union president, said.

Chief Stilt said the extent of Breaker's injuries was not known as yet. He said the policeman was injured during a general milling about of pick-

Semi-Ballistic Space Bomber Credited to Reds

Washington — Missiles and Rockets magazine said Friday the Russians have a semi-ballistic space bomber. It added that this could mean they are seven to eight years ahead of the United States in development of a dynamo-type manned boost-glide space vehicle.

The magazine quoted European military sources as saying that the vehicle, called the T-4A, is in the advanced testing stage but is not yet operational.

"Presumably it will be manned," the magazine added.

The vehicle was described as similar in design to a manned missile proposed during World War II by Dr. Eugen Saenger, German rocket pioneer.

Police of 2 Counties Hunt Night Club Owner's Killers

9 Bullets Fired Into Head, Body Found in Drainage Ditch

Milwaukee — Authorities of two Wisconsin counties pressed a search today for killers who fired nine bullets into the head of a 320-pound Milwaukee night club owner and then dumped his body into a drainage ditch.

Isadore "Izzy" Pogrob, 37-year-old bachelor and operator of the Brass Rail, a jazz band and strip tease night club, was believed shot to death early Wednesday. His body was found in a ditch at suburban Mequon, just across the Milwaukee county line in Ozaukee county.

Inspector Rudolph Glaser of the Milwaukee police said Thursday night that at least "angry, violent men" took part in the killing. He said that nine bullets were fired into the back of Pogrob's head, seven emerging and two lodging in the skull. The bullets were from .45 and .38 caliber guns, the inspector added. A tattered blood-stained white handkerchief also was found tied around the victim's head to cover his eyes.

Authorities from Ozaukee county took jurisdiction in

Heavy Fog Hits Britain

Highway, Rail And Air Service Severely Hampered

London — Dense fog settled over much of Britain again today, creating nightmares for motorists and stalling rail and air traffic.

London itself was relatively clear, but it was a pea soup in Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham and Scotland.

Trains ran late for a second straight day.

Planes were earth-bound at Liverpool and Manchester airports. Services to Europe and the Middle East were delayed at London airport, where the mist slowly lifted as the day wore on.

The fog at London airport during the night was so thick firemen had trouble finding a British European Airways Viscount which tipped on its nose while taxiing at 70 miles an hour on a runway. The mishap started a fire on the plane. Its 59 passengers and crew left the cabin door and slid down ropes to safety.

Whitie's Bar Burns

Morning Blaze Destroys Kimberly Landmark Tavern, Barber Shop

Kimberly — Flames this morning destroyed the interior of a landmark tavern, barber shop, 131 N. Main street. Fire, smoke and water caused some $50,000 damage in who has owned the 50-year-old building for about 40 years and has been in the tavern business for about 25 years, made the estimate.

The fire was discovered by Gerald Verhagen, 353 Karlyn street, a volunteer fireman. He smelled smoke on his way to work and drove about the neighborhood until he saw smoke coming out of the bar.

Frozen Alarm
He attempted to turn in the alarm from the 3-year-old alarm box on the corner, but it was frozen. He went to the fire station, turned in the alarm — relayed by factory whistles — and opened the station doors about 6:45 a.m.

All but two of the department's 20 firemen reported for duty, many in varying

McDonald May be Democratic Delegate

Harrisburg, Pa. — Steelworkers President David J. McDonald will be considered for one of 42 Pennsylvania delegate-at-large posts to the Democratic presidential nominating convention.

Gov. David L. Lawrence extended an invitation to McDonald to be a delegate to the July convention in a telegram yesterday congratulating the labor leader on the steel contract settlement.

Smoke Pours Out of Whitie's bar and Mill's barber shop as an early morning fire destroyed the 50-year-old landmark on Kimberly's Main street. Elmer Behrendt, owner, estimated damage at $50,000.

Reds Invade Testing Ground

Russians Stake Out Broad Area In Central Pacific

Moscow — The Russians are invading America's favorite testing ground in the central Pacific to try out a powerful new rocket built for launching heavy earth satellites and space flights to the planets.

The Soviets last night staked out a broad, deserted area 1,100 miles southwest of the Hawaiian Islands for test firings to begin between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

Foreign ships and aircraft were warned to steer clear of the target zone — roughly a rectangle 280 miles long and 160 miles wide — during the tests. There was no indication how long they would continue.

(Soviet missiles have been sighted coming into the north Pacific in recent months. Shifting the target south into the region of American interest was viewed in some Washington circles as a deliberate move to impress the west with the reliability and accuracy of Russia's new missile weapons.)

Strikers' Wives Threaten to Take Children to Picket Line

Neenah—"We'll take our kids to stand there," the wife of one of the striking workers at the Neenah Foundry company told city officials today when eight women marched on city hall to protest what they called police brutality at the plant this morning.

The wives met with Mayor Chester Bell, City Atty. Charles Schaller, City Clerk R. V. Hauser and Police Chief Irving Stilt. Mrs. Edward Grissom, 623 Jackson street, acted as spokesman for the women.

Schaller outlined the laws regarding picketing saying strikers have a right to picket but they cannot prevent free access to the plant.

"There was no violence until they (the police) started it," a woman said.

"They (the pickets) blocked the entrance to the plant," Schaller replied.

"How about four policemen hauling one guy across the street?" another woman asked.

Chief Stilt said he was forced to use tear gas to restore order at the plant. He said several policemen had been pinned to the ground by strikers.

The meeting lasted about 15 minutes.

Dubious Democrats Question Surplus

Unconvinced U. S. Defense Power Sufficient to Offset Growing Military Might of Soviet Union

Washington —(P)— A skeptical Democratic congress called on the Eisenhower administration today to demonstrate it can produce a budget surplus without weakening America's defenses.

President Eisenhower's estimate in his state of the union address yesterday that his new budget will have a $4,200,000,000 surplus was challenged by leading Democrats and even some Republicans.

Influential Democrats made it clear they remain unconvinced that the "enormous defense power" Eisenhower said the nation has is sufficient to offset growing Russian military might.

Prosperity Forecast

Democrats generally join Republicans in applauding Eisenhower's forecast of prosperity at home and peace in the world — if the Soviets cooperate. But most Democrats thought this no time to stand on a $41 billion defense budget when military costs are rising.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, sounded a note echoed by many of his party colleagues when he said:

"I am alarmed at the president's proposals to reduce the budget at a time when we are moving into a deteriorating military situation."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), another avowed candidate for the party nomination, said that Eisenhower's reports on space research, rockets and missiles "do not reflect that we are closing the perilous missile gap or rebuilding our ability to deal with non-nuclear military threats and attacks."

Too Rosy Picture
Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the senate armed services committee said Eisenhower had painted too rosy a picture of the nation's defenses. Commenting on Eisenhower's report that 14 Atlas intercontinental missiles

Budget Surplus Would Affect 'Tight Money'

Could Bring Drop In Interest Rate; More U. S. Loans

Washington —(P)— The $4,200,000,000 budget surplus which President Eisenhower foresees for the next fiscal year portends important long-range changes in the "tight money" situation worrying Wall street and Main street.

Officials of financial agencies said today a surplus of that size probably would have one of two effects: Bring about a drop in interest rates — now at the highest level in a generation — or make it possible for more Americans to obtain the loans they want.

Budget Secret
Thus the budget secret which Eisenhower yesterday slipped into his state of the union message to congress holds important implications for all borrowers and lenders, and for the economy as a whole.

But that would be in the future. Meantime his call for a continuing battle against inflation indicates no immediate easing of the credit situation.

Eisenhower estimated record peacetime spending of $79,800,000,000 in the 1961 fiscal year which begins July 1. However, he said revenues will exceed that figure by $4,200,000,000 to produce the biggest budget surplus in 13 years.

What's more, the president said the current fiscal year will show a $200 million surplus despite revenue losses caused by the steel strike.

No Tax Cut
In looking to two balanced budgets in a row, Eisenhower told congress to use the surpluses to reduce the national debt — not to cut taxes.

Once debt reduction becomes a normal practice, he continued, "we can profitably make improvements in our tax structure and thereby truly reduce the heavy burdens of taxation."

The surplus would depend not only on high revenues but also on willingness in congress to forego either tax cuts or heavy new spending programs.

Kresge Firm to Try Charge Account Plan
Detroit —(P)— The S. S. Kresge company, a cash-and-carry system for its 60 years of history, is going to try charge accounts.

Kresge announced today it will open a charge account program on a trial basis Monday in 68 Detroit-area stores.

H. B. Cunningham, president, said the charge system will be tried because of the company's expanded lines of merchandise.

When Chester Myers, treasurer of Montgomery county, Ohio, grabbed the camera and necktie of Dayton news photographer Robert Doty, the latter held the door open with his left hand to enable a fellow cameraman to take this picture. Two charges of drunken driving are pending against Myers. The photographers work for the Dayton Journal-Herald.

Call for Cut In Proposed U. S. Budget

Washington —(P)— The heads of the house appropriations committee joined today in a call for cuts in President Eisenhower's $79,800,000,000 budget for next year.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) and Rep. John Taber of New York, senior Republican, agreed that the budget could and should be trimmed.

Eisenhower announced the proposed total spending figure yesterday. His detailed proposals go to congress on Jan. 18, in a formal budget message.

"It certainly has to be cut," Cannon said. "It is not consistent for the president to caution against self-indulgence in one breath and then propose spending programs that amount to self-indulgence."

Cannon said he believed the president was "very optimistic" in expecting that federal revenues during fiscal year 1961 will be large enough to produce a surplus of $4,200,000,000 over expenditures.

The president, Cannon said, expected a balanced budget in the fiscal year that ended last June 30 "and instead we had a deficit of over $12 billion."

Taber said he was pleased that the president plans to submit to congress later this month a balanced budget.

He repeated his previous statements that "I never have seen a budget that couldn't be cut," and said "we will help the president obtain a bigger surplus by cutting his budget."

NBC Denies Walking Out of Press Conference

Los Angeles —(P)— The National Broadcasting company denies participation in a radio-TV walkout at Gov. Edmund G. Brown's news conference Wednesday. NBC says its representative was there with pencil and paper.

John Thompson, manager of NBC news' Pacific division, disputed published accounts that all TV and radio crews except that of KCOP walked out on Brown after he refused to be filmed while newspaper reporters interviewed him.

"A full account of the governor's remarks was carried on our newscasts Wednesday night," Thompson said Thursday.

Marine Commandant Changes Corps Policy

Colorful Swagger Stick on Way Out; Demands Realistic Rating System

Washington —(P)— Marine sticks have been tucked Gen. David M. Shoup has bluntly informed his leathernecks there are going to be some changes made—lots of them.

More realistic ratings, less office politics and no interference sniping are some of his demands. Swagger sticks are frowned on.

Shoup took over on New Years day as marine corps commandant. He learned today that he delivered his first jolt on Jan. 4 in the form of a stern lecture to members of his headquarters staff.

A 16-page version of his manifesto is now being distributed to marine commands and units at home and abroad to let leathernecks know his "views, designs and policies."

Most of his jabs were aimed at officers, especially those in upper echelons. He led up to what apparently is one of his pet peeves by saying that a "clean, neat, well-fitted uniform with the marine corps emblem is tops. There is no need for gimmicks and gadgets."

His target: Swagger sticks. He said the two-foot stick, often carried as a mark of prestige, will remain "an optional item of interference."

"If you feel the need for it," he told his officers, "carry it." Since Jan. 4, no swagger sticks have been seen tucked under the arms of marine officers in the Pentagon.

The practice of carrying swagger sticks by marine officers had been revived in 1953 on orders of Gen. Lemuel Shepherd, then commandant of the marines.

Shoup directed marine officials to shed any reluctance to express their views on the over-all problems of the nation and its armed forces. But he specifically forbade the running down of any other service "by thought or speech or deed."

He told all of his marines to forget any idea that other services are "sniping at us."

He said some corps commanders had been drifting away from one of their principal duties—the job of training their units and troops.

Extra Police Guard Ordered for New York Religious Landmarks

New York —(P)— Extra policemen have been assigned to guard churches and synagogues as a result of defilement of city religious landmarks.

Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy announced the extra guard last night after a meeting with 26 religious and educational leaders.

Earlier yesterday Jewish religious symbols and the old testament phrase, "an eye for an eye," were found painted on outside walls of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and the Riverside church, both Protestant churches. Also painted on both churches was the 6-pointed Star of David.

Democrats Expect to Have Bigger Voice In Party's Strategy

Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson Agrees to Call More Meetings

Washington —(P)— A group of northern and western Democratic senators said today it expects to have a bigger voice in party strategy and legislation this session. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) said he does not consider as a challenge to his leadership the demands made by the liberal group at a meeting of Democratic senators yesterday.

"I don't think it has anything to do with it one way or another," he told newsmen after the two-hour meeting.

More Meetings
Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), spokesman for the protesting group, said Johnson had agreed to call more meetings of all Democratic senators — a point on which he was challenged last year. A motion to require more meetings was not put to a vote.

Action was delayed on another motion — to require election by the senators rather than appointment by Johnson of new members of the potent Democratic policy committee.

The 9-member policy group, now headed by Johnson, holds a stop and go control over business that comes before the senate. Johnson, assistant leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo.), secretary of the Democratic conference, are ex-officio members.

Of the six other members, Johnson said he has named two while the other four are holdovers on the continuing body.

Recall Complaints
Yesterday's closed-door meeting recalled complaints last year by Sens. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and a few others that Johnson was doing too much leading without consulting them and other Democrats.

Renewal of the complaints could affect Johnson's leadership in a year when he is considered an aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination.

They also could have some bearing on his continued cooperation on some matters with the Republican administration — another subject of criticism by the group last year.

But bursts of applause within the closed-door meeting indicated most of the Democrats backed Johnson.

Police Nab Accident Victim Spirited From Hospital Bed

New York —(P)— Police have caught a critically injured auto accident victim who was cut down from traction and spirited out of Coney Island hospital just as it was discovered he was a parole violator.

Search is on for four husky men — believed to be accomplices — who took him out of bed and roughed up four nurses who tried to stop them from taking the patient away.

Seized after nine days in a hideout without medical care, the man was reported in fair condition today in the prison ward at Kings County hospital.

The parole violator, identified as John Pierce, 27, was seized Thursday. Detectives, acting on a tip, found him in the Brooklyn home of a woman friend. Her identity was not revealed.

Pierce had been taken to Coney Island hospital Dec. 23 in critical condition after suffering a broken leg, fractured ribs and the loss of an eye in an auto accident. He gave a fictitious name.

Authorities later learned Pierce's true identity. He had been sought for failing to report to his parole officer after being paroled in March 1958 from Sing Sing prison, where he had been serving time for assault and robbery.

Found Bed Empty
Parole officers went to Coney Island hospital Dec. 30 to arrest Pierce. They found an empty bed.

The night before, four men had sneaked into the hospital, cut Pierce free from his traction weights and pulleys, and carried him off with his leg in a cast.

Detectives theorize Pierce was spirited out of the hospital in an attempt to prevent his return to prison for parole violation.

Cites Value of Junior Hunter Training Plan

Gun Specialist Says Program Would Cut Hunting Accidents

A compulsory junior hunter safety training program can cut shooting accidents in Wisconsin, according to Herbert Lemke, gun safety specialist with the conservation department.

Lemke cited figures to show that training is a decisive factor in reducing hunter accidents. Data from California showed that 12,400 untrained junior hunters caused 43 casualties, or one for every 290 youths. Data for trained junior hunters on the other hand, showed that 17,000 caused only three casualties, or one for every 5,600 hunters.

Lemke pointed out that only one of Wisconsin's 13 deer season fatalities was caused by a juvenile.

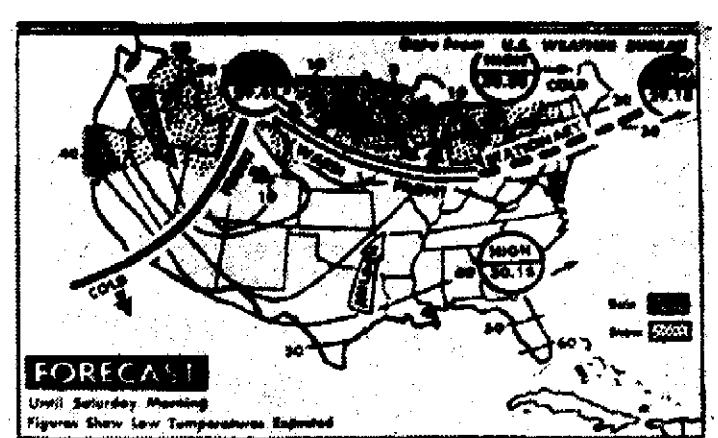

Lemke said an analysis of data showed there was no direct relation between the number of casualties and the type of season. He also found that the type of weapon had no bearing on the accident rate. Two fatalities were caused by shotgun slugs in counties where only shotguns were allowed, and no rifle county registered more than 2 fatalities.

No accidents at all were reported in Dane county where prior to the season there had been vigorous protests against the use of rifles.

An evaluation of fatal shootings indicated that victims were shot at ranges of less than 100 yards.

Lemke commented that a deer hunter who knows what he's shooting at, and uses a firearm that has been properly sighted, could not possibly cause an accident.

"The crucial ingredient," Lemke concluded, "is a trained hunter."

Researchers Work on Weed Killers for Use in Forests

Madison — University not be determined for some time.

Prof. J. D. Moore, another Wisconsin plant pathologist, told of 10 years of research on sprays used in orchards and said the university does not approve chemicals merely for insect and disease control.

Dr. C. Boyd Shaffer of New York, a toxicologist with a chemical firm whose research led to food and drug administration allegations that a weed killer used on some cranberries made the product unfit for human consumption, told the conference of his findings.

He said that in two years of research with the chemical he was able to induce tumors in rats, but said he believed they were not cancerous.

Shaffer said a FDA pathologist who viewed the slides used in the work said the tumors might be malignant and the FDA apparently acted on his advice.

This led to a big loss to cranberry growers when the harvest was held up just before the holidays for purity checks.

Byrnes Lauds Ike's Speech

Says Both GOP, Democrats Should Support Program

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, chairman of the house Republican policy committee, today declared the principles in President Eisenhower's state of the union message "should receive strong support from both Democrats and Republicans."

The president's insistence "that we put first things first" will be applauded by all Americans," Byrnes said.

Eisenhower's program for a "sound, self-disciplined America will lead the way to peace with freedom and justice," he added.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, said the president set a "clear course for our nation to follow."

Laird Praises Ike "Mr. Eisenhower faces the problems confronting our country with resolution and realism," continued Laird. "He gave us a concise report on our nation's assets and liabilities, its strength and its weaknesses, its aspirations and its fears."

"The president spoke from the heart," concluded Laird. "Every American realizes he cannot become a candidate for reelection. His recommendations should receive the sincere and thoughtful attention of this congress."

Kaukauna — Mike Vandenberg rolled a 236 game and Frank Effa posted a 624 series to share honors in the South side Businessmen's league at Verbeten's alleys.

Bob Verbeten rolled a 555 set while Ed Sanders hit 233-575.

Applications for Six Firemen Jobs Being Accepted

The Appleton police and fire commission is accepting applications for six firemen, three new jobs and three replacements.

Application blanks can be obtained at the fire station, 203 N. Oneida street, and must be filed at the station. Chief Paul A. Neumann will take the blanks to the city clerk's office.

A prospective fireman must have three citizens endorse his character, must be fingerprinted (which will be done by the police department) and does not have to be an Appleton resident, although he must move into the city before the 6-month probationary period expires.

The commission will hold examinations at the Appleton Vocation school at a later date.

Starting salary for a probationary fireman is $350 a month. He works every other day for 24 hours, and every eighth day has a 3-day holiday. One-week vacations are given after the first year of work, 2-weeks after the second year.

Mercury on Skid Down To Zero

The temperature was on a downward skid at 10 a.m. this morning. A 23 recorded at 8 a.m. dropped to 15 at 10 a.m. Cold, near zero, is expected in the north by night.

Snow fell in the state during the night north of a line between Durand in the west and Kewaunee in the east. Traces of snow were found in the Fox Cities.

Precipitation ended in the southeast today after a few days of rain, sleet and snow but there were wet spots in other sections of the country.

Temperatures appeared headed to near normal marks in most of the country. Cold weather continued in some northern midwest areas and in northern New England.

Available Job Total Rises In November

January Outlook 'Relatively Light,' Gehrke Reports

A total of 171 job openings were listed during December with the district office of the state employment service, compared to 153 in November and 137 the same month a year ago, Fred R. Gehrke, district supervisor, reported.

Gehrke said the outlook for January is "relatively light" compared to previous Januarys because of general economic conditions, partly due to the steel strike.

"There is not great demand at present for manufacturing employees, but slight breaks have occurred and may become more accelerated because of the steel strike settlement," he added.

There still is a great demand for office workers, he pointed out.

During December, the Appleton office referred 138 persons to jobs, compared to 236 in November and 142 in December, 1958. Of those people referred, 95 were hired, compared to 105 in November and 61 a year ago.

The active file of persons seeking employment totaled 1,378 on Dec. 31, compared to 993, Nov. 30 and 2,047 a year ago.

"This 1,378 includes seasonal layoffs, which were not as deep and heavy as a year ago," Gehrke explained.

During January, Gehrke and his staff will visit the 20 high schools served by the Appleton district office, giving tests to commercial students, the results of which will be used by prospective employers.

Women May Get Pension

Service in Corps During World War II Makes One Eligible

Service in the women's army auxiliary corps between May 13, 1942, and Sept. 29, 1943, may now be credited for establishing pension or compensation eligibility, providing the woman veteran also had service in any branch of the armed forces after Sept. 29, 1943.

A new law, enacted by the 86th congress, provides that the required total of 90 days wartime service may be composed of two or more periods of service in World War II, such as WAAC service combined with WAC or other active service in the armed forces. Ninety or more days service in the WAAC becomes active wartime service for pension eligibility when there is later active service even outside a war period, Francis Heesacker, veteran service officer, said.

A woman with disability incurred in, or aggravated by, service in the WAAC with subsequent active service in the armed forces, is entitled to disability compensation on the same basis as any other person whose disability resulted from disease or injury in active war-time service, Heesacker said.

The new law provides that those entitled to compensation under the Federal Employee's Compensation act for the same service may elect to receive compensation or pension from the VA in lieu thereof. The choice must be made within one year of the enactment of the new law, Aug. 7, 1959, and pension or compensation cannot be paid prior to the date when the individual makes her choice.

Fluoridation and Children's Teeth

In this period when there is great commotion about chemicals contaminating foods it is well to note also that there are some health-giving chemicals which are desirable in foods and beverages.

Dr. R. E. Krumbiegel, city health commissioner of Milwaukee, reports that fluoridation of Milwaukee's water supply during the past six years has reduced tooth decay in children up to 59 per cent and has saved an estimated $718,000 in dental care.

The doctor based his report on a survey of 12,530 children between the ages of 6 and 14 years taken in 1950 and compared with a survey of 4,660 children of the same age groups taken by the health department last October. Dr. Krumbiegel says that most significant results were found among children in the seven year old groups. Before fluoridation, he said, children averaged 1.29 decayed, missing or filled teeth. This figure is contrasted with .53 as the average number of decayed, missing and filled teeth among the 7-year-old children tested in October. That is a reduction of 59 per cent, the doctor says, and adds that he believes this figure will be increased to 60 to 65 per cent as fluoridation continues. The doctor says the reduction in the average number of decayed, missing and filled teeth was somewhat less among the older children. It was 35.5 per cent among the 10-year-olds and 33.6 per cent among the 12-year-olds. The doctor says this is due to the fact the latter group did not start drinking fluoridated water until they were four to six years old and long after their teeth had started forming.

The total cost of fluoridation for the first six years in Milwaukee was estimated at $240,000 or about 5.5 cents per person yearly. The savings of over $700,000 which leaves a profit of $500,000 does not take into account the many other benefits which cannot be measured in money. These are the pain and disease resulting from infected or decayed teeth and certainly no one can put the dollar value on a toothache.

New York's Tobacco Tax

The state of New York adopted a 15 per cent tax on tobacco products effective July 1. A recent survey shows that the average retailer in the state has experienced a 30 per cent drop in his sales of cigars since then and a 25 per cent drop in smoking tobacco sales.

People accustomed to the ease with which states have imposed taxes on cigars may be wondering if cigar and pipe smokers give up their habits because of an increase in taxes. This is not so at all. In fact, the people of New York may be smoking just as much or more than ever but they are not buying their cigars and smoking tobaccos from the New York merchants. Many persons commute into New York from neighboring states daily and it is believed they are bringing in cigars and smoking tobaccos for themselves and their friends.

However, some dealers have complained they are being undersold by competitors who bootleg cigars from New Jersey and Connecticut where there are no taxes on tobaccos. It is pointed out very few retailers in New York state are unaffected by the tax. Half of the store owners in the survey have reported losses in cigar sales ranging from 20 to 40 per cent. A Manhattan cigar store owner reported an 80 per cent drop in cigar business. He remarked, "I am living near the Hudson tubes. I lost most of my Jersey business." Upstate retailers are reporting losses up to 30 per cent which they blame on bootlegging.

The climax came from a dealer in the Bronx who reported a one-third drop in his cigar sales and a 26 per cent drop in tobacco sales since July 1 and added, "Don't forget, we don't collect the 3 per cent city tax on cigar sales." He was referring to the fact that many retail cigar dealers customarily absorb the 3 per cent sales tax out of their profits. But it appears that when people begin to fight a tax they fight it all the way through and neglect to pull their punches for the people who are absorbing the tax. The power to tax is truly "the power to destroy."

Krupp Climbs Back

The Krupp factories which profited so enormously during World War II, a great deal from the manufacture of war materials, probably will gross a billion dollars this year. The company's history is an interesting study in the wiles and stratagems of mankind when power is at stake.

The industries began in 1810 and the Krupp name has been handed down, not only from father to son but from father to grandson through a daughter who preferred her maiden name to that of her husband. The Alfred Krupp who owned the industries during the Nazi regime apparently was a dedicated party man who even got Hitler to decree that the industries would "always" be ruled by a Krupp.

The younger Alfred Krupp was convicted at Nuremberg of war crimes and sentenced to 12 years in prison. But in 1951 the sentence was commuted and his confiscated property was returned to him. The Western Allies in 1953 ordered him to sell his holdings by January, 1959. The time then was extended for a year.

There have been rumors that the order will be completely rescinded. After all, the Krupp millions now are being made entirely through the manufacture of peacetime goods. Alfred Krupp, divorced by two wives, is pictured as a lonely man who really wasn't taken in by Hitler.

Justice Is Irrelevant

The trial going on in a side-show atmosphere in Baghdad of 57 persons accused of conspiracy in the attempted assassination of Premier Kassem last October is one of those political circuses quite unconcerned with justice. So far the shouted charges by the prosecutor-general will not serve to ease Middle Eastern tensions.

Premier Kassem was wounded in the arm and shoulder as he was being driven along a Baghdad street. He was rushed to a hospital and surrounded by secrecy while another attempt on his life was reported. Now the prosecution has been parading a long line of soldiers, lawyers, doctors, government workers, peasants, teachers and one newsman before the court while the names of 24 others who skipped were read. If the trial follows the pattern of those held last year in Iraq, there will be much shouting, charges, countercharges and inescapable verdicts of guilty.

What Others are Saying

Colleges Should Get Better Grade Students

From The Chicago Tribune

We are indebted to the Tulsa Tribune for reporting a notable speech by Dr. Charles F. Spencer, president of East Central State college in Ada, Okla. Here is what Dr. Spencer told a meeting of state legislators and citizens:

"Some students come to college without being able to read above the 5th grade level. I believe college is not a place to teach people to read and write."

"As long as colleges take anyone who graduates from high school, there's no reason for the high school to improve."

"I wouldn't ever say to a boy or girl, 'You can't go to college.' But I would say, 'You can't go to college until you learn to read and write.' If we would say that, our high schools would all get busy."

Dr. Spencer's statement will encourage other teachers and school administrators who think "life adjustment" theory has done great harm to educational standards in America. Glenn McCracken, director of the reading experiment in the schools of New Castle, Pa., believes there are thousands of schoolmen in this group.

"Most of these unhappy educators," he writes, "do not make their feelings known to the public or even to their colleagues for obvious reasons: (1) some are afraid of jeopardizing their positions or opportunities for advancement, (2) others do not have access to the various media through which they might make known their opinions, (3) many would rather remain silent than risk appearing disloyal to their profession, and (4) far too many of them simply say, 'What's the use?'"

Vulnerable Wisconsin Resident Fair Target for Former Iowan

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Being a staunch supporter of Wisconsin, it always bothers me when someone like Robert W. Melberg, who wrote critically in these columns of Iowa, tries to defend our wonderful Wisconsin and winds up pointing out all our deficiencies instead.

For instance, after knocking Iowa down and showing just what a poor state it is, he immediately indicates that Wisconsin isn't even that good by saying he had to go to Iowa to architectural school because Wisconsin doesn't have one. If Iowa is better than Wisconsin in this instance, does he have to shout it in public print?

Why didn't he just add, too, that Iowa out-produces us in corn, hogs and beef, and that Iowa has produced Herbert Hoover, George Washington Carver, helped produce Tennessee Williams, produced Meredith Wilson, Donna Reed, Ronald Reagan, etc., and really make it rough for us Wisconsinians?

And why, help us, did he so shortly after the last two Rose Bowl games have to bring up Iowa's "heroic" athletic teams? Especially, and even more shortly, after the recent meeting between the Iowa and Wisconsin basketball teams? Could he be an Iowan in disguise?

Another three paragraphs and he would have half-emptied the whole Fox Valley of people going to Iowa looking for the good life.

And why did he have to bring up "Ames" and remind everyone that Khrushchev spent hours there inspecting and visiting the Iowa State college before proceeding for more hours of visit in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, while he didn't even fly over Wisconsin?

And why did he have to hold us Wisconsinians up to be laughing stock for the world by pointing out that Iowans can earn less money on one hand and pay more taxes on the other than we Badgers. Is he trying to say that we are less willing to support our state, don't care if it is as good, or are just money starry schafskampfs compared to Iowans?

And by saying that Iowa radio stations all sign off at 6 o'clock, is he succeeding only in telling everyone that a Wisconsinian doesn't know the difference between a daylight and a full time broadcasting license for radio stations, or worse yet, that a Wisconsinian doesn't know enough to turn a radio dial when the station he is listening to signs off?

Finally, does Mr. Melberg have to leave the impression with everyone that while Iowans feel no more need for liquor than making it available in the nearest county seat, Wisconsinians are so helpless without it that they have to have it in every nearby drugstore, liquor shop and tavern?

Gov. Nelson should immediately forsake his minor problem of taxes and move boldly into the major problem area of providing a suitable list of complimentary statements to make about Wisconsin for people like Mr. Melberg who travel out of our state. Or at least, after statements like the above, he should cancel Mr. Melberg's $16 car license. Let's not have more of this running down of Wisconsin. For those of us who used to live in Iowa and now have to go back and face relatives there, Mr. Melberg has made it mighty rough, I say, mighty rough!

Appleton and Sheboygan relief grievances were aired that morning at the meeting of mayors from northeastern Wisconsin in Appleton, as Mayor John Goodland of Apsenburg of Sheboygan advocated concerted action on the part of the mayors in an attempt to recover control of the relief situation from state and federal agencies.

Education costs, measured on the basis of public school attendance in relation to the school budget, were higher in Appleton than both the national and the state average, a survey made by the federal bureau of education showed.

Under the Capitol Dome

Year Will be Dull From Political Standpoint

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — It is the fashion of some of the commentators of more exalted rank to essay forecasts about the probable development of events during the new year, and in the spirit of that custom here are some modest prophecies about the 1960 politics of this state:

The state legislature will continue to exasperate its constituents by remaining in session long beyond the call of duty and the limits of common sense.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson and the Democrats will seek a new franchise in the capitol by dusting off all the old arguments about the Republicans of Wisconsin.

The Republicans will seek to return themselves to the Democratic seats by trying out some new arguments on the basis of the record of the first Democratic state regime in modern times.

The state employees will continue to complain that their pay isn't enough.

The organized taxpayers will continue to growl that the cost of government is too high.

TALK

There will be more talk than ever before about fundamental tax revision, but when all the echoes have subsided, the job will be left for another legislature in another term.

Self-conscious and small bore politicians, given a false sophistication by watching too much television, will continue to call away hard-working reporters from more legitimate tasks by announcing "press conferences" at which they will say nothing.

Half a dozen nonentities will call at this office to use half a dozen hours in solemn explanations of why they ought to run for governor or for some other high office that is absurdly beyond their reach — or capacity.

A thousand political press releases will be opened and dumped into the basket.

Sen. John Kennedy will decide to enter the Wisconsin presidential preference primary after all, and will gather into his bag a majority of the Wisconsin delegates shelves of local supermarkets.

There plainly printed on the label is the list of ingredients:

Let people think of this before they carelessly refer to Menasha and Neenah as "suburbs" of Appleton! In fact — when we consider the realities of the situation — we're inclined to think that quite the opposite may be true.

"The black crow is probably the smartest bird we have," Ganier says. "He is quick-witted, loves to play and has worked out a watch system that protects him."

AND MORE

Rep. Henry Reuss will be elected mayor of Milwaukee and Sen. Henry Maier, after losing a hard-fought election to him, will find that it won't be so easy to be elected to Reuss's congressional seat after all.

The Wisconsin Republican party will send a delegation to the national GOP convention with less fuss than at any time in a generation, and it will vote for the nomination of Richard Nixon — if it gets a chance. Listed low on the roll call, it may not have the chance to be recorded before the nomination is ratified by acclamation.

The Wisconsin Democratic delegation, after failing to get Jack Kennedy nominated, will turn to Adlai Stevenson and probably back a winner for a change.

And this chronicler will examine the calendar sometime in late summer and reflect with some chagrin that a quarter of a century has passed since an editor gambled and put him on his first newspaper payroll.

Plant's Sale Pleases the Twin Cities Paper

From The Twin Cities News-Record

We were interested to note the recent acquisition of the capital stock of the Appleton Manufacturing Co. by the John Strange Paper Co., of Menasha.

Here, we believe, is a concrete illustration of the importance of the Twin Cities to Fox River Valley industry.

A great number of Appleton, Kimberly and Little Chute people already work in Twin City and Twin City-controlled plants. And now, an enterprising Menasha firm extends its control to an Appleton firm.

Let people think of this before they carelessly refer to Menasha and Neenah as "suburbs" of Appleton! In fact — when we consider the realities of the situation — we're inclined to think that quite the opposite may be true.

New Albums Highlight Music for Relaxing

Tranquil Compositions Winners Of Edward B. Benjamin Award

BY HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Newfeatures Writer

New Orleans industrialist Edward B. Benjamin, one of the country's great music benefactors, so ardently agrees with poet William Congreve that "music hath charms to soothe the savage breast" that in 1953 he set up an annual award for composers of quiet compositions.

His "Edward B. Benjamin Award for Restful Music" is administered by a committee of judges selected from the composition faculty of Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y.

The tranquil compositions of nine recent winners are reposefully rendered by the Eastman-Rochester Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Howard Hanson, on a new Mercury album, "Music for Quiet Listening."

The result is charming, soothing and eminently listenable. Even the titles of the various pieces, which range from tone poems to straight orchestra movements, are conducive to thoughtful serenity; "Katharine in April," "Christ Looking Over Jerusa-

(Capitol) — Carmen Dragon and the Capitol Symphony orchestra stir up the wind in the magnolias with some lovely instrumental renderings of "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Folks at Home," "Old Black Joe" and all the other old Foster favorites and a few of the lesser known ones.

With his deft use of strings, harp, square dance fiddle and minstrel-style banjo, Dragon again demonstrates that he is one of the country's most resourceful and imaginative conductors.

Percy Grainger Country Gardens and Other Favorites (Mercury) — Frederick Fennell and the Eastman-Rochester Pops orchestra explore the haunting, rapturous rhythms of Percy Aldridge Grainger, a highly original and gifted composer who at 77 is still hard at work at the keyboard.

The title piece "Country Gardens," has become a concert favorite; the others, particularly "Spoon River," "Colonial Song" and "Handel in the Strand" are gradually and deservedly winning a wider audience.

Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes (Capitol) — Brahms was notoriously pessimistic about almost everything he wrote except these charming, delightful waltzes that so completely captured the gaiety of 19th century Vienna. "I will risk being dubbed an ass," he wrote, "if our Liebeslieder do not bring joy to quite a few people."

Brilliant Sound As sung by soprano Elsie Morison, contralto Marjorie Thomas, tenor Richard Lewis and baritone Donald Bell to the accompaniment of duo-pianists Vronsky and Babin, they seem destined to bring joy to quite a few more. The sound is brilliant, the singing superb and the total effect immensely pleasurable.

Even Brahms, famous lullaby could hardly sound more relaxing.

As a Zen Buddhist, Nothing Bothers Sessue Hayakawa

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood —(AP) — Recently in Tobago, West Indies, the location company of "Swiss Family Robinson" was complaining about the food.

All except Sessue Hayakawa, who merely ate his meals in blissful silence. Back in Hollywood briefly en route to his Tokyo home, the actor explained how he could endure the poor food.

"I was concerned for the other people in the company, but not for myself," he said. "Nothing bothers me. Absolutely nothing. That is part of being a Zen Buddhist." Not even a bad golf game bothers the veteran Japanese star. "Because if I get angry, my game gets worse." His religion has been getting much notice recently because it has been embraced by members of the beat generation.

Way of Life

Hayakawa, who often speaks at his temple in New York, said he welcomed the beatniks, though he cautioned about Zen becoming a fad. "It is a way of life," he said. "I think that any religion, whether it be Zen Buddhism, Christianity or whatever, is good for people."

Now past the 70 mark, Hayakawa is a handsome, vital testimonial to his faith. He still leads a busy life, traveling to acting jobs in all parts of the world and to his four homes on three continents.

Homes No. 1 and 2 are in Tokyo. He explained that one was an American-style bungalow with central heating. That's his winter house. The other is a larger, Japanese home where he lives when the weather warms up.

None in Hollywood

His other homes are in New York and Paris. He spent 15 years in Paris, including the war period. Except for so-called progress, he would still have a home in Hollywood, too. He built a house here in 1918, only to have it torn down a few years ago because of a freeway; "I can't drive that freeway; it makes me too sad," he commented.

Hayakawa has seen a great deal of change in Hollywood, some good, some bad. He arrived in 1912.

He worked four years at Paramount, making several films with Cecil B. DeMille. He was scheduled to play "The Sheikh," but lost out to Rudolph Valentino. Later, Hayakawa formed his own company.

He is planning to shoot 39 TV films in Tokyo for the American market. Hayakawa will play a police inspector, a sort of Joe Friday of the Rising Sun.

Liam O'Brien Adapts Short Story to Play Form After 5 Years

New York —(AP) — After a five year delay, Liam O'Brien suddenly found the inspiration to write a play in three months.

O'Brien, author of "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," was asked by producer Saint Subber in 1954 to dramatize a short story, "The Masculine Principle."

After wrestling with the project for a while, O'Brien gave up, but the plot notion lingered. Early this year he wired Subber he would like to tackle it anew and got an okay.

Subber accepted swift script, now has it on his Broadway production agenda.

Gore Vidal Turns To Political Drama

New York —(AP) — Gore Vidal is switching his playwrighting attention from comedy to political drama.

The author of "A Visit to a Small Planet," is at work on "The Best Man," the plot of which centers upon a national party convention.

Charlie Has His Tribulations as A Most Reluctant Public Speaker

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Pity the poor working stiff who somehow gets on the "cold chicken and pea" circuit as a speaker. Through no skill and no fault of my own, I have become one such.

It is necessary to advise early in this treatise that I am not a good public speaker, yet by the machinations of our kind of life, I am on the speaking treadmill and I am unable to get off. Not only am I a poor speaker, I am a reluctant one. I have never (well, almost never) accepted a speaking obligation gracefully. The reason for that is plain: I do not like to be a public speaker.

Chances are that I would be able to move through the rest of my life without ever having to deliver a speech except to my sons who are a captive audience and who, out of courtesy to my advancing age, are obliged to listen to me.

Those chances were ruined when I took a canoe trip. Even before I touched a home port, 14 letters of request had reached my office: Will Charles speak to our organization, the letters asked.

Treadmill Starts

I agree, and heartily so, that if a fellow of my ilk can serve or aid a worthy association then he had better do it. So — to most of the letter writers, I responded with a hesitant "yes, but I am a lousy public speaker and I give you this opportunity to withdraw your request." None did. The treadmill started.

To those first groups, I spoke as well as ever I could. There is, of course, no fee for such a function. It is the thought of this newspaper that its staff members ought not—out of graciousness—accept a speaker's fee. Generally, it is considered—and should be—a public service because it is true that every newspaper owes its own community a great deal.

Fees are almost always offered, but I have not accepted one of them. I, too, believe that I owe my community what services I can provide, such as they are.

Word Gets Around

But, woe is me, the word gets around! I do not know how many service clubs there are within our circulation area but in the past six months I have spoken to 64 organizations. Letters of thanks came from only three of them.

One group to which I spoke one evening required a 60-mile drive in wretched weather. Three months later came a letter, finally, of thanks. But the only reason it was written was because, in the second paragraph, was a request to speak at its next meeting.

The many appearances became a burden in time and effort. In discussions with editors of this newspaper, it was decided that I should make only one speech a week instead of—in several cases—three a day. My work as a newspaperman was suffering. It became impossible to give speeches I had already prepared because of the fact that many people belong to two or more clubs. There came a need to write new speeches for almost every occasion.

Trouble Brews

It was necessary because I am not a good ad lib speaker. I cannot ad lib my middle initial! And things grew more difficult for me, both in time, nightly absences from my family and in daytime absences from my normal function as a newspaperman.

Several times I got into trouble because of a speech obligation interfering with a story assignment. Since I regard it my primary duty to write, I would, of course, fulfill the assignment but stir the wrath of the organization which had requested my services.

The once-a-week—formula did not work properly. It is very hard for me to say no to friends or to organizations which I admire. Hence, the treadmill went on... and on... and on.

Small Compliment

Because some organizations have drinking bouts before banquets, I am obliged numerous times to speak to audiences which are somewhat tipsy. It is difficult to speak to such an audience, even for a competent speaker. Reactions come slow, if at all, and some members slumber peacefully during the talk—small compliment to anyone.

These days when the telephone rings and someone says, "I am the program chairman of..." it is my custom to say, "I hate you!" And then, soon, because I am a most tender-hearted man, I acquiesce.

Many program chairmen have deigned to telephone me on the afternoon of the day they want me to speak for them and almost demand that I accept what they call an "invitation" to speak. One group, but inform me on the subject to which they would like to listen! Most, apparently, do not realize that the preparation of a speech takes much time and effort. I have been asked to speak on subject I know absolutely nothing about.

Sometimes the poor working stiff who finds himself on the cold chicken and pea circuit is given an assignment by a member of the organization. "Speak," he will say, "on Russia. Keep it to 40 minutes."

If I accept such an assignment, I am often called by another member demanding to know what my subject will be. When I inform him, he will say, "No, no, no! Our group wants something much lighter." A third one will telephone and advise me that I should not speak 40 minutes at all because their group would be bored. "Fifteen minutes at the most!" he will adjure me.

Subject Matter

Many chairmen not only request that I speak to their

These calls usually come on the very day on which I am prepared to speak.

Wrong Dates

Sometimes program chairmen will give me a wrong date. When I appear at the appointed place on the appointed hour, nobody is there. I may have driven many miles to keep the appointment.

Another chairman made a request that I speak to his group once a week for the coming year! But on my single talk to that group I was not even thanked. My talk may not have been good—but I tried.

I have been requested by various members of a single group to speak (1) about 20 minutes (2) about a half hour (3) 45 minutes (4) an hour, on (1) something light, (2) something serious (3) a newspaperman's life (4) some of my assignments of past years (5) my canoe trip (6) "just tell jokes" and (7) anything you want except so-and-so.

It is not easy to say "No" to anyone because I like people here. But "no" is coming more easily than it was before.

And I hope nobody blames me for THAT.

Property Tax Heavy Load In Wisconsin

State Commission Studying Situation Seeks Relief

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The local property tax is one of the most burdensome levies in Wisconsin and demands relief, the citizens revenue study commission at work here on a revision of the Wisconsin state and local government fiscal machinery believes.

Local property tax would be infinitely more painful without the generous state treasury subsidies paid into local treasuries and the equally substantial shares of state-levied taxes sent into local districts each year, a state tax department study showed here today.

For the state as a whole, state shared taxes and aids amount to about 50 per cent of all local property tax revenue.

Moreover, the state payments are apportioned in such a way as to favor the poorer districts at the expense of the more affluent territories. Thus some localities are getting as much as $2 from the state treasury for the maintenance of their local budgets for every dollar they raise out of their local property tax base. Without such state subsidy, their local property tax rates would long ago have reached the breaking point.

More Aid
The counties in the industrialized regions of southeastern Wisconsin, the eastern lake shore, and the Fox River valley get less than average subsidy.

Generally the high subsidy districts are in the far northern parts of the state where the local tax valuations are typically low. Most of the state aid formulas contain a local valuation factor. The state income tax is distributed according to the residence of the taxpayer, thus industrialized sections generally get higher returns which enable them to keep their local property tax rates lower and more stable.

No Rabies Cases In Norway; 217 Die in Philippines

United Nations, N. Y.

Norway has not had a single case of rabies in man or animal since 1808—but 217 persons died of the disease in the Philippines in 1958.

The World Health Organization (WHO), in reporting these figures, also said:

Rabies is prevalent in 52 countries and absent from 25 in the United States that bats are important in keeping the infection alive.

The Philippines reported more than 145,000 persons treated for the disease in 1958; most of those who died had not been treated.

The United States reported mission have indicated the reforms likely to be proposed will be in the direction of further extensions of the state aid principle and local sharing of state tax levies.

about 60,000 treated in 1958. It showed 6 deaths from rabies in 1958 and 5 in 1959 up to Nov. 27. Five of the 11 persons who died had been bitten by dogs, 3 by bats and 1 each by a fox, a skunk and an unknown carrier.

The animal most to blame for giving the disease to man is the wolf in Iran, the fox in Canada and Czechoslovakia and the dog elsewhere. But there is increasing evidence in the United States that bats are important in keeping the infection alive.

Lawrence Says Seek Proof of Red Backing of Anti-Semitism

Widespread, Show
Good Organization

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The finger of suspicion begins to point more and more toward communist responsibility for the wave of anti-Semitism which now has broken out sporadically in countries as far apart as Canada, Australia, Sweden and South Africa.

Even in Israel—which is the last place one would expect to see any anti-semitic demonstrations—swastika insignia were found in a synagogue and in a labor exchange building.

Much of this has been brushed off as "crackpot activity." But when anything occurs that is as widespread as has just been reported from all parts of the world, it is apparent this is no accidental occurrence but a well-concerted plan.

Dr. Karl Ibach, chairman of resistance fighters against the nazis, is quoted as having told Chancellor Adenauer that there is an underground anti-Semitic movement and its two centers in Sweden and Vienna are in contact with former nazi leaders who have fled to Egypt. Recent reports indicate some of the anti-semitic demonstrations in the southern part of the United States might have had their origin in certain Arab countries.

East German Approach
Although there must be a considerable number of anti-semites in East Germany, no demonstrations occurred there for several days. When the fact was noted in the press the East Germans managed to join the procession with the painting of swastikas on walls in a small town near East Berlin.

Obviously the communists are playing a double game. During the last ten days, they suppressed in the Soviet press the news of the anti-semitic demonstrations but filled the air waves in the west with denunciations of West Germany as being dominated by former nazis and fascists. The communist strategy is to injure the prestige of the Adenauer government and weaken the influence of the chancellor in the forthcoming "summit" meetings on the Berlin problem. The objective is to convince people in the west that it would be a mistake to reunify Germany. The Soviets have not given up their idea of forcing the western powers out of Berlin altogether.

Why should anti-Jewish "hate paintings" appear simultaneously, in remote parts of the world? It seems incredible that the former Nazis should suddenly find themselves possessed of enough money of their own and a big enough international apparatus to carry out such a scheme. Probably there are some "right wing" groups which have secret ties with the communists, though outwardly they profess hostility to each other.

Seek Proof
The West German government has just declared that while there is no positive proof as yet that the incidents were organized and controlled by a single organization, "we hope to have the proof soon."

Chairman Francis E. Walter, Democrat, of the house committee on un-American activities, has just said he has information from "unsavable confidential intelligence sources" showing that communists are behind the recent anti-semitic outbreaks in West Germany. He says the trouble is "communist-inspired for the purpose of attempting to discredit the West German Adenauer government."

Increasing Criticism
The anti-semitic demonstrations have already brought results by way of increasing criticism of the West German government for an alleged lack of vigilance in cracking down on former Nazis. But the West German government finds it difficult to take effective action against the communists who travel back and forth across the frontier from East Germany every day carrying verbal instructions to communist agents in the press, in the universities, in the churches, and even in the local governments in West Germany. Part of the strategy is to arouse many so-called "liberals" to pooh-pooh the communist menace, and this gives the communist apparatus even more leeway than ever before in carrying on their diabolical plots.

These Days

Sokolsky Blasts Purpose of Small Propaganda Papers

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY — It all started because of a belief that there is an inside story, something that is known only to an esoteric few. So in a new slant, a new newspaper, a new type of newspaper, mimeographed and printed began to appear. They arrive from all parts of the country. Some deal with "inside" stories, something that nobody else knows, something that gives anyone an advance notice of events to come. Most of the material can be found in newspapers and magazines. Some of the small papers deal with stock market information and while they usually avoid giving tips, their greatest value to the reader is that they point the way to an investment. In a bullish market, such information does little harm. Most times the advice is given by such as do not invest because they have nothing to invest, but then they explain that it is not necessary to be a horse to understand a horse, which is logic of a kind.

Then there are the hate sheets that fill the mail; hate Jews, hate Roman Catholics, hate Negroes; just hate because there is money in hating. These scurrilous sheets must be very profitable because there are so many of them, all badly written, vilely printed, historically incorrect. Nevertheless, they come week after week and someone pays the postage. Then there are the black mail sheets. These unlovely documents are sometimes well-printed, on good paper and even cleverly written but always they praise someone so obviously that after an issue or two it is as clear as though put on a masthead, who pays the bill. And always there is a defamation of character, an attack on an individual or on a business, a threat of more to come and an obvious indication that the subject to be discussed might find a way to have the whole thing dropped.

There used to be a fellow in Shanghai, many years ago, who went by the title of journalist, who walking along the Bund or up Bubbling Well Road would encounter a subject, stop him, tell him a story and swiftly turn on his heel and depart before the subject caught his breath.

If the subject did nothing about it, a subsequent issue of a small paper, labeled "Go-Down," would contain the story with the following introduction: "It has been said, but it has not been denied."

The current breed does not give that much notice. It explodes a tale to ruin a reputation, to break a business or to engage in a war of nerves. Sometimes, the so-called peephole columnists, lacking an item or two, will cull something from these small papers and thus a planted rumor about a lady's virtue, a businessman's prosperity, an important person's health, the relations of a husband and a wife will be given credence without investigation and without truth.

Primitive Sadism
This is an ancient form of journalism and is, in a manner, encouraged by the mores of the times, which seem to recognize the disreputable as celebrities along with the most distinguished. Ladies of the night often appear in the newspapers as celebrities and business news often gives credence to the so-called geniuses who, in time, turn out to be frauds.

The small paper is very much like payola on radio and television. Its particular format is based on the assumption that all the world enjoys seeing a fat and pompous person slip on a banana peel and fall on his face. It caters to primitive sadism. (Copyright, 1960)

Lawmaker Asks Legislature to Back Loyalty Oath
Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Assemblyman Jerome Quinn has attacked a University of Wisconsin faculty meeting stand against the loyalty oath requirement for federal student loans and said the legislature should make known its opposition to the faculty position.

Quinn made his comments at meeting of Republican members of the assembly in Madison. He said a relaxation of the loyalty oath requirement is the height of folly and does not reflect the thinking of a majority of Wisconsin citizens.

"When a student is using federal funds for his education at a state-tax supported university, the taxpayers have a right to know that he is not a member of and does not support any organizations which do not believe in the United States government."

"The attempt by some university professors to relax their allegiance oath is carrying liberal ideas and freeing thinking too far, and they must be very profitable because there are so many of them, all badly written, vilely printed, historically incorrect. Nevertheless, they come week after week and someone pays the postage. Then there are the black mail sheets. These unlovely documents are sometimes well-printed, on good paper and even cleverly written but always they praise someone so obviously that after an issue or two it is as clear as though put on a masthead, who pays the bill. And always there is a defamation of character, an attack on an individual or on a business, a threat of more to come and an obvious indication that the subject to be discussed might find a way to have the whole thing dropped."

Pickets, Police Clash at Neenah

trousers were torn and several union members also had jackets ripped during the early morning melee.

City officials said at noon today they understood Breaker had suffered a possible coronary attack. Hospital authorities said his condition is "fairly good."

The union has been on strike since midnight Wednesday when negotiations in progress since October broke down.

"My men were getting crushed and one officer was injured so I released one small tear gas cartridge," Chief Stilt said. He stated the union pickets were wedged together in front of the door so tightly he had to use the tear gas to clear a path. He thought Breaker's injury resulted from some manhandling and pressing as the police tried to clear a passageway.

Quotes Law

He quoted the law on preventing pursuit of work as the reason for the policemen being there. This law reads:

"Any person who by threats, intimidation, force or coercion of any kind shall hinder or prevent any other person from engaging in or continuing in any lawful work or employment, either for himself or as a wage worker, or who shall attempt to so hinder or prevent shall be punished by fine not exceeding $100 or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than six months, or by both, and imprisonment in the discretion of the court."

"Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit any person or persons off the premises of such lawful work or employment from recommending, advising or persuading others by peaceful means to refrain from working at a place where a strike or lockout is in progress."

Chief Stilt said his coat and

The girl was found, seemingly unconscious, in an alley near her home after being missing 24 hours. When she "came to" in the hospital an hour later, the girl admitted faking unconsciousness and said she had run away to spend the night with a girl friend because her mother had scolded her. She told her friend's mother she had permission to stay overnight.

The union representatives said that as for the fringe benefits the first offer of the company was for a pension plan which the company said would cost them four cents an hour.

First Offer

"At the time this was proposed the wage proposal was 8 cents an hour for labor and maintenance men and up to 16 cents an hour for incentive men."

"The workers were to get 3 cents an hour increase as of Jan. 1 of this year and the balance of 5 cents on Jan. 1, 1961. The incentive men were offered increases of 3 cents on Jan. 1, 5 cents on July 1, 4 cents on Jan. 1 of next year, and 4 cents on July 1 of next year."

They also charged a company representative had broken the lock on the union's bulletin board and had taken down a sign which said the workers should join the union by a certain date to qualify for strike benefits.

Aylward gave this company statement at noon:

the case on the assumption that Pogrob was slain on a small concrete bridge that spanned the ditch. The body was found beneath the culvert by Mequon police after a farmer saw bloodstains on the bridge. Milwaukee authorities, however, were also working on the case with the neighboring officials. The state crime laboratory also was called in.

Police would not speculate whether Pogrob's death was a gangland execution or for the money he carried. He was seen with about $1,500 in a Milwaukee restaurant early Wednesday. When his body was found there was only 93 cents in change in his pockets. His wallet was missing.

Displayed Money

Pogrob was last seen after he left the Belmont hotel coffee shop about 3:45 a.m. Wednesday. A waitress, Mrs. Earlene Keating told of Pogrob's display of money and said it drew the attention of three men, two in a booth and the other at a nearby table.

The two men followed Pogrob when he left, she said. Detectives found the two men late Thursday, however, questioned them and promptly released them.

Pogrob's brother, Irvin, reported to police Wednesday that Izzy was missing. About noon Thursday Pogrob's white Cadillac was found on Milwaukee's north west side. There were bloodstains on the front seat and two spent .45 caliber cartridge cases on the floor. The car was about seven miles from the spot where the body was found.

A farmer who saw large splatters of blood on the bridge over the drainage ditch called Mequon police. Chief Robert Milke found the body.

No Dairy Support Reduction Seen

Washington—(AP)—Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R-Wis.) said today he expects no reduction in the price support level for dairy products for the marketing year starting April 1.

Laird conferred earlier this week with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Benson is expected to make an early announcement concerning the level at which butter, cheese, dried milk and other dairy products will be supported in the new marketing year.

Milk used in manufacturing the products is currently supported at $3.06 a hundred pounds or at 81 per cent of parity.

During the last year, Laird said, milk prices in Wisconsin have averaged about 15 cents above the support level year-old entertainer was found or $3 21 a hundred pounds. He shot to death in a ditch near said that if the support level recently completed a two-month engagement at Peoria, Ill., Dec. 20. She had is left unchanged it is likely the state will average above $3 21 during the year.

Ceiling Lights Can be focused to set off the drapes and furniture in the living room of the William Urban home, 1048 Kalfahs street, Neenah. The system and fixtures were planned in advance to make most efficient and decorative use of light.

Mr. and Mrs. William Urban find adequate and flexible lighting a point of much enjoyment in their dining-family room. Dimmers can be used to enhance the charm of lighted candles or for TV viewing and special lamps give proper illumination if reading is on the evening's agenda.

Careful Advance Planning Pays Off in Well-Illuminated Home

Lighting, as it can be used in the front hall, revealing a profusion of healthy green plants thriving under the direct light.

Unfortunately, many people about to embark upon the pleasant task of designing a new home are unaware of the fact that it is no longer necessary to tolerate inadequate light, shifting shadows or uninteresting patterns of light.

Mr. and Mrs. William Urban, who moved into their new home at 1048 Kalfahs street, Neenah, in May walked into a home presenting a "happy" friendly face without a trace of dreary shadows in the basement, closets or even in the utility room. Careful planning in cooperation with the Wisconsin Michigan Power company has turned the Urban's 1-story home into a cheerful, bright and safe environment, pleasing and easy on the eyes.

Enough Light
To begin with, early in the plans, provisions were made for general illumination, that is, the total lighting of a room so there is sufficient light. Specific lighting also was considered. An example of this may be discovered in the small, spot type light set in the ceiling above a planter.

The Urbans seem to have thought of everything. In their combination dining and family room, two rows of overhead lights in the ceiling are operated on dimmers which allow the dinner party hostess to create a soft glow augmented by flickering candles. A row of smaller lights directly above the dining table create a spot effect with just the correct amount of illumination.

Use Dimmers
The dimmers are good for television viewing too, when full strength of lights is not required. Later, if the Urbans want to do some reading, the dimmers are turned up and the wall lamps near the reading area are switched on. There is no eye strain in this arrangement.

In all of the closets, ceiling lights are set forward to prevent shadows in the back of the closet. All bathroom feature lights are situated so that when Urban is shaving no shadows fall on his face. As a safety measure, vapor seal lights are above the bath tub and shower. No moisture can seep in and there is less chance of slipping on a hidden, unseen piece of

Church Publishes New Teen Magazines

New York — New magazines for teenagers are being launched by the United Presbyterian church. The new monthly publications are "Hi Way," for youths of the senior high school age, and "Venture," a revamped magazine for junior high schoolers.

Diffusion Glass
All the lights are designed in special diffusion glass which allows more light to flood the room, says Mrs. Urban.

Dimmers also control the living room lights. The coziness of a roaring fire is not lost. Lights can be focused attractively on the long drapes, accenting the room decor.

Mrs. Urban, like most housewives, spends much time in her kitchen which, through careful planning, also is well-lighted and convenient. The spot type punch light found through the house illuminates the stove and dish washing - disposal area. Concealed lights on the shelves shed light on the counter to make preparing meals easier and more fun.

Power Tools
The man of the house had his hand in planning too. Power receptacles in the garage are set for power tool hook up. The builders have allowed for expansion in terms of use of electricity, and have installed extra circuits to prevent overloading, common in many homes today because of the addition of new appliances.

The house exterior has not been neglected. There are receptacles for outside lighting since the walls, floor and ceiling are subject to heat and moisture conditions. Because the homemaker, her family and friends spend so much time in the kitchen, she wants it to look clean and cheerful. Besides being her main workshop, it is also the place where she serves family meals and snacks, entertains neighbors for morning coffee, attends to details of household planning and watches over children at play.

Homemakers today, therefore, are seeking ways to decorate their kitchens so that the walls and ceilings will look attractive at first and will stay that way with a minimum of effort.

Popular Solution
One popular solution to this requirement is the application of modern plastic - surfaced hardboard on walls and ceilings. Available in a choice of colors and wood patterns, these panels have a durable baked finish that seals the beauty in and keeps moisture.

Kitchen Wall Can be Easy To Keep Clean

As mom's "workshop," the kitchen probably is in use more often than any other room in the house. Kitchens pose a decorating problem, since the walls, floor and ceiling are subject to heat and moisture conditions. Because the homemaker, her family and friends spend so much time in the kitchen, she wants it to look clean and cheerful. Besides being her main workshop, it is also the place where she serves family meals and snacks, entertains neighbors for morning coffee, attends to details of household planning and watches over children at play.

The old Appleton Curling clubhouse in Pierce park should be razed and the metal storage building behind it moved to the Municipal Golf course, the park board has decided.

The buildings have been vacated by the curling club and the insurance on them has expired. The grounds will be returned to park playground, Park Supt. Harold Jerke said.

Low bidder on two trucks, a half-ton pickup and a platform truck, was the Fox Valley Truck Service company, 2100 W. Wisconsin avenue. Its pickup bid was $1,300 for a GMC vehicle. The top bid of the five was $1,535. Its platform bid was $3,125 also for a GMC. Top bid of the five was $3,415.

The board also received permission from the department of army engineers to install a retaining wall on the west bank of the Fox river below Bellaire park.

No One Gets Rich Working For Railroads, Say Two Sides

Industry Officials, Unions Argue Points Without Getting Answers

BY ROGER GREENE

AP News Service Writer

"Who's getting rich?"

That's the challenge raised by the five big railroad unions when the industry sets up a howl about engineers and firemen getting four or five days' pay for a day's work.

The industry, for example, says a typical case is the 1,034-mile run between Chicago and Denver which a fast passenger train covers in 16½ hours.

Since pay is based on a long-established rule of a day's basic pay for each 100 miles, the railroad has to pay 10 1/3 days' pay for each engine crew position on the Chicago-Denver trip.

"All right," say the unions,

"if that's the way you want to play, let's analyze it. Let's see who is getting rich on all this fabulous pay."

Case History

The Brotherhood of Locomotive

Engineers says it investigated the following case history:

1958, Engineer M. E. White drove the Burlington Zephyr over the 162-mile stretch between Lincoln, Neb., and

Creston, Iowa, on the Chicago-

Denver run, averaging 2 hours

51 minutes per trip. For this he received $32.11 a trip on the mileage-pay basis.

In 15 days, White spent

210½ hours on duty or laying over at the far terminal

between trips, and he received $481.63, or $2.29 per hour for the total elapsed time he spent in service.

"Is that too much for a highly skilled worker?" the union asks.

"Let's take another look at those figures," an industry spokesman replies.

Industry Argument

got paid was $481.63 for 15 trips totalling 42½ hours of work, or $11.26 an hour. That

rate of $90.08 for an 8-hour work day or $450.40 for a 40-hour week. No wonder the railroads are taking a licking."

Union: "What about his layover time at the far terminal? Remember, he doesn't get paid for away-from-home expenses — hotel room and meals — nor does he get paid a differential for night, Sunday or holiday

Railroad: "Are we supposed to pay for the time

he's sleeping at the far terminus between runs? What company pays its employees for sleep time?"

Ticking off other points raised by the unions, the industry says that in World War

II the five train-operating unions accepted a special award of 5 cents an hour to compensate them for away-from-home expenses. The award remains in the present

pay structure.

Favorable Situation

As for premium pay for working on holidays, the in-must not result in the firing of thousands of employees.

The 100-mile formula for a day's basic pay — or "unit of work," as the unions prefer to call it — was born in the days when it took considerable sweat and hustle to drive a pokey coal-burning locomotive 100 miles. It wasn't unusual, in those days, for a brawny fireman to shovel 10 to 12 tons of coal in a day's run.

Firemen Unused

Today, powerful oil-burning diesels zip over the tracks twice as fast as the old iron horse, and the fireman, with no furnace to feed, serves chiefly as an extra lookout for possible danger.

Thus the railroads contend they are being forced to perpetuate jobs as outmoded as the chief whip tester in a buggy whip factory. They say it costs them $230 million a year to provide surplus firemen in freight and yard service alone.

But the unions insist the fireman is just as important to railroad safety as the co-pit of an airliner. Say the unions:

Far from twiddling his

thumbs, the fireman must keep a constant safety watch on the blind side of the cab

— keeping tabs on wayside signals, speed zones, track obstructions, hotboxes and highway traffic at crossings.

In addition, he acts as standby pilot in case the engineer suffers a heart attack or stroke. Even the famed "dead man's throttle," they say, doesn't always work.

Circular Dialogue

Industry: "We're not asking for removal of the fireman as 'copilot' on passenger trains — only in freight and yard service."

Unions: "What if the freight engineer dies and the

wants a 200-car freight train

Industry: "It wouldn't run wild, even under those circumstances. You forget, the head-end brakeman also rides with the engineer on all freight trains."

At this point in the argu-

Last of Series

spread-the-work rules which set a limit on the number of miles train crews may work and hence restrict their earnings.

The industry says passenger-train engineers received an average salary of $10,000 a year in 1959, with a maximum of $14,000 a year. Fire-

Lower Pay Rates

But the unions, quoting interstate commerce commission figures, say railroad employees — excluding executives — averaged only $2.47 per hour in mid-1959, compared with $3.10 for steel workers, $2.59 for auto industry employees and $3.23 for soft-coal miners.

Some union officials concede privately that mileage-pay and some work rules are obsolete, based on conditions which prevailed half a century or so ago, and both need a general overhauling.

But they insist any revision

Real Estate Rackets All But Impossible

Appleton Realtor Outlines State's Tough New Law

Real estate rackets are almost impossible in Wisconsin since the legislature passed a law in 1959 requiring licensing of all real estate brokers, Joseph DeNoble, Appleton realtor, told the Appleton Lions.

Two of the most widely used gimmicks were advance fee solicitation and loans on property, he said.

Advance fee solicitors came from out of state and took money for advertising property. Then they moved out without providing any service. Loans on property were also promised, but after he collected a retainer, the dealer would leave town.

The new law prevents these rackets in several ways. All Wisconsin realtors must be licensed. DeNoble said there has been a license law in Wisconsin for about 40 years, but it didn't always provide for much. The law requires realtors to pass a written exam with a score of 75 per cent or higher.

The Wisconsin Real Estate Brokers board is the enforcement body on the new laws.

Active Office The new law also forbids non-residents of Wisconsin to employ salesmen in the state, and requires brokers to maintain an active office. These provisions are the most important in preventing the advance fee and mortgage loan rackets.

Building Codes Often Control Remodeling

Be Sure to Check With Local Officials Before You Begin Any Major Projects

There's hardly a do-it-yourself home-improvement project which isn't ruled, one way or another, by local building codes.

Unless you check with building inspectors before you begin work, your project may have to be torn down because it violates a local law.

The following checklist lists instances when you'll probably need a building permit: If your home addition is valued over $100 (figuring your labor at going rates).

Add a Garage The addition changes your house from a single to multiple-family dwelling (or changes its "occupancy" in any way).

You add a garage or convert one to another use. You wall in, roof, or attach a patio to your house.

You build a pool deeper than 24 inches. You install plumbing or electricity, either inside or outside your house.

You build a retaining wall over four feet high. Your barbecue's chimney is more than six feet high.

You drill a well or put in a lawn-sprinkler system. You build a carport.

Your radio or TV antenna, tower, or flagpole exceeds 45 feet in height.

Garden House You build a garden house or pergola with floor area greater than 400 square feet.

Awnings or canopies extend 12 feet or more from your home's exterior walls.

You plan to install or alter street curbs or sidewalks.

Not all home projects may require a building permit. But, no matter how modest your project is, it's a safe bet to check first with the local building office before you pick up trowel or hammer and get to work.

U. S. Steel Industry Needs Revitalizing

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Now that the steel companies and steelworkers finally have worked out a wage contract, it is imperative they get together and work out a solution to a basic challenge — soaring competition from foreign steelmakers in our own and in the world markets.

Porter

This moment of national rejoicing over the steel settlement is hardly the right time for rehashing 1959's charges and countercharges over the reasons why foreign steel has been pouring into our land or the extent to which the flow is threatening American jobs, paychecks and profits.

This climactic moment is the right time, though, to put some facts about the imports into the record and to weigh their meaning.

Foreign steel has been pouring into our country at an unprecedented rate in the last couple years. It is utterly folly to blame the inflow entirely on conditions connected with the prolonged strike.

Good Foreign Product Increasing numbers of steel mills in industrialized England, Germany, France, Belgium, Japan are new, modern, automated. Their steel is distinctly competitive in quality and price with ours.

The tycoons running these mills are on a deliberate drive to penetrate our markets, gain U. S. customers and keep them.

To hold their U. S. customers and get new ones, European steelmakers are following capitalistic pricing policy. They are ready and willing to cut prices to serve their long-term aims.

Indirect Import Direct imports of steel are only part of the story. Indirectly, more and more foreign steel is coming into our land in the form of foreign-produced cars, typewriters, machine tools.

At the same time, our exports of steel have gone into a nosedive. Our sales of steel in the world's markets are shrinking while our own market is opening wider than ever to the foreign-made metal.

We dare not sit back and scoff at the trend. We dare not act the role of cry-baby about it. We must not turn to the time-dishonored correctives of higher tariffs, quotas, the like.

Rather, the answers must be the time-honored ones: Our own mills must become more efficient, competitive. Our own producers must find new markets for steel. The price of our steel must be determined against the background of world competition as well as domestic demand.

All Right Now Of course, everything is just dandy right now. Our steel mills will be working at top capacity for months to meet current demands, refill pipelines and warehouses. The problem today is scarcely one of getting enough customers for U.S.-produced steel.

But this is the short-range, not the long-range pattern. Last year, imports totaled 4,000,000 tons, almost double the amount ever sent here in a year. In the past two years imports have risen over 300 per cent. Many U.S. industrialists have been introduced to foreign steel for the first time, and their response has been provocatively favorable.

Do you have any concept of how much Europe has raised its production efficiency? New, fully-integrated steel mills have been going up in just about every country. U.S. experts say flatly that some of the mills make many of ours look antiquated.

Lower Prices Do you have a clear picture of their pricing policy? Early last year foreign steel prices were well below ours, but during the strike they marched right up to our levels. Now they're being eased again.

Of course, against our estimated production in 1960 of 130,000,000 tons, the predicted foreign inflow appears a trickle. But the trend is the fundamental point.

Now that the strike is settled, the responsible leaders of steel management and labor must face their responsibility to look coldly at the challenge and meet it. Great efficiency of production, real hard selling, price-cutting in the spots where it matters — what new-fashioned remedies would achieve.

New York — (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said Thursday that injecting a religious issue into the presidential campaign would obscure the real issues facing the nation.

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic and contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, appeared on a television show.

The senator, asked to discuss the influence of religious prejudice in politics, said he saw "very, very, very little" evidence of it during his 14 years in public life.

In Good Taste Explain Situation Tactfully

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Last week I received a letter from a relative living in a distant city, saying that she and her husband were coming to this city for several days. She has hinted very broadly that they would like to stay at our house (they know we have plenty of room). However, I don't wish to have them stay here and would prefer that they go to a hotel. I will of course invite them to meals occasionally, but frankly, I don't feel up to having people stay here. It means so much extra work for me. Will you please tell me how I can handle this situation tactfully?

Answer: You might write that much as you would love to have them stay with you, your health simply won't permit your having house guests "even their dear selves" at the present time.

Phone Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: Often when I answer the telephone the person on the other end will say, "Hello, who is this?" It infuriates me and furthermore, I do not like giving my name until I have some idea who is at the other end. Please, Mrs. Post, won't you instruct people on the correct way to answer the telephone?

Answer: I agree that one who is not sure of your voice should ask, "Is this you, Mrs. Smith?" or "Is that you, Mary?" Someone calling another member of the family should say, "This is Betty Green, may I talk to Sara?" On business matters the person calling should explain, "Miss Jones of Fine Arts would like to speak to Mrs. Smith."

Messages Read Aloud

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter was married recently and she received quite a few telegrams at the reception. After proposing the toast, the best man read the messages aloud and announced the names of the senders. I have been told that this was in very bad taste. Will you please give me your opinion?

Answer: While unusual, I would not go so far as to say it was in bad taste to have the messages read aloud.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-7, entitled "wedding Anniversaries," send 19 cents in coin to Dept. E.P., care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

Faculty Recital to Feature Sonatas

A pair of sonatas, one from the romantic and one from the contemporary era, will be featured in a recital by Theodore Rehl, pianist of the Lawrence conservatory, at 8:15 p.m. Sunday in Harper hall. The two sonatas, the C Major, Op. 53 by Beethoven, and Op. 28 by Samuel Barber, from the beginning and conclusion of the program. The other composers represented are Chopin and Schumann, also from the romantic period. The Beethoven sonata was written shortly after the turn of the 19th century as the composer's deafness was increasing, while musically his individuality was making itself known. He is credited with opening the door to the romantic school.

Initiate New Era
A new era of piano technique was initiated by Frederic Chopin, whose themes reflect the ardent nationalism of Poland. The "poet of the piano" developed a new method of pedaling and the infinite shading between "piano" and "forte." Three Chopin etudes (poetic studies) and the "Nocturne in C minor, Op. 48, No. 1" have been included in Sunday's program.

Also on the program is Robert Schumann's "Papillons, Op. 2." Ranked among the first as a composer of songs and short piano works, Schumann himself was prevented from becoming a concert pianist by a finger injury. Finale of the recital is Samuel Barber's "Sonata, Op. 26." Winner of several Pulitzer prizes in music, the latest in 1958, the Prix de Rome in 1935 and a Guggenheim fellowship in 1945, Barber is one of the most outstanding of the contemporary composers. He began to study music at the age of six, composed at seven and entered the Curtis Institute of Music at 13.

World Premiere
Barber has studied piano and singing with Vengerova and De Gorgorza, and was a composition student of Scalero for six years. The world premiere of his opera "Vanessa" was presented by the Metropolitan Opera in January of 1958.

The complete program, which is open to the public, is as follows:

- Sonata in C major, Op. 53 Beethoven
- Allegro con brio
- Adagio molto
- Allegretto moderato
- Three Etudes, Op. 10 Chopin
- No. 4 in C sharp minor
- No. 6 in E flat minor
- No. 8 in F major
- Nocturne in C minor, Op. 48, No. 1 Chopin
- Intermission
- Papillons, Op. 2 Schumann
- Sonata, Op. 26 Samuel Barber
- Allegro energico
- Allegro vivace e leggero
- Adagio mesto
- Fuga Allegro con spirito

HE sweetheart! but this moment SHE I am not unhappy

Beware of Postponement

"... This young couple want to marry. Are they suitable for each other?"

A gifted and compelling personality is revealed in this young man's small-lettered swift, forcefully written script. He is brilliant and creative.

His major fault is a tendency to be too wrapped up in himself. This may not be apparent on short acquaintance. Though he knows how to please and usually does so, he is very much concerned with taking care of himself. He hears only what he wants to hear. Pressure increases his resistance.

Several of his words end with an unusual t-formations made with a single stroke. The stem is crossed backwards (from right to left). This emphasizes the other indications of introversion in his writing.

"Could she get along with a man like this?" She could get along with almost anyone; Her writing reveals a sweet-tempered, tolerant, intelligent person. Her low capital "I," no taller than the vowels in her writing, indicates a submissive nature and willingness to subjugate her own wishes.

The great problem here is that each will never comprehend the other because they are so opposed in their way of thinking and their emotional attitudes. Opposites are inclined to bewilder and frustrate each other as marriage partners no matter how strongly they are attracted.

Since she is a gentle person to whom a home and children are extremely important, she should insist that he set the date now and if it's postponed, forget him!

A Lovelier You By Mary Sue Miller

Lovely Legline

Legs can be thin, heavy or muscles. Repeat ten times just right, but if they are flabby, they are all wrong. Of the many figure ailments, surely a flabby legline can be counted among the most unlovely. And aging, too!

The main cause, however, has little to do with age. Lack of exercise is the culprit. A drastic weight loss also can bring about the problem. If you reduce like mad and expand like a balloon, creases in your legs are not at all creases in your legs. Obviously, exercise is the key to firming. For the purpose of the following routines, you must lead a rather sedentary life. To perform, you need a leather strap about 60 inches long, two sturdy leathern straps, buckled together, will serve.

Stretch out, back down, on your second chance floor. Hold ends of strap in either hand and sling center over your head. Right foot reducing exercises that will meet your individual needs and whether for thighs, knees, calves or ankles, or for contouring your entire legline. # Nobility Jams Notre Dame For Royal Wedding Rites

Paris — (AP) — The nobility of Europe jammed the Cathedral of Notre Dame today for its first royal wedding since 1818.

Prince Marie Edouard Lobkowicz, 33, and Princess Francoise de Bourbon Parme, 31, were married by Maurice Cardinal Feltin, Roman Catholic archbishop of Paris.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor led the list of 2,000 wedding guests. A wedding banquet followed at the hotel Ritz.

The pageantry matched that of the last royal wedding in the Cathedral, when the Duke of Berry, nephew of King Louis XVIII, married Princess Marie-Caroline, daughter of the King of Naples.

Princess Francoise swept into the old cathedral on the arm of her father, Prince Xavier de Bourbon Parme. She wore a gown of flowing white satin, with a 22-foot train borne by five pages and held in place by a diamond crown.

Cardinal Feltin read the couple a telegram conveying the blessing of Pope John XXIII.

Responding to the traditional wedding question, the princess answered with a slight "oui" that could hardly be heard. The prince spoke up loud and clear after turning — as custom demanded — to his mother for approval of the marriage.

In addition to the titled guests, there were such notables as the ambassadors of Britain, Belgium and Spain, France's Marshal Alphonse Juin and former French Premier Georges Bidault.

The noble houses represented included Hapsburg, Bourbon Parme, Bavaria, Liechtenstein and Luxembourg.

The bridegroom was born in New York. He graduated from the Sorbonne, then returned to Harvard for graduate work. He served in the U.S. army in World War II and returned to New York to enter the brokerage business.

Our Children

Playing 'Chicken' Coward's Game

BY ANGELO PATRI

Of all the nonsensical, foolish, childish things a boy can do is the dare he takes to put himself in danger of injury to body and spirit.

Yet we hear of this bit of foolishness every so often demonstrated by seemingly intelligent boys in their teens, early teens usually.

Some not-too-intelligent group companion says, "Race her at 60 head to head and the first to turn off is chicken." You'd any sane person believe that a boy, using the family car, an apparently sensible boy, would accept that and actually try it? And so have himself killed and the car wrecked? It has happened.

"I dare you to walk the track until the engineer blows the third time. Chicken if you don't."

Don't be Fool
And fool if you do. Any boy who hasn't the courage, the intelligence, to laugh at such dares certainly cannot lay claim to being heroic much less to being ordinarily sensible. He is about as cowardly as can be found around town.

I wonder why a boy blessed with just ordinary brains let alone the one who is known as "smart," falls for such nonsense, such dangerous foolishness. Why can't he take a look at this challenger and see what he is made of exactly.

What's his standing in the community? Who praises him besides himself? What does he stand for? Any place on the student council? Track? Team? In teacher's regard? In short, what's his batting average in general? Usually it's very low. Who is this specimen to be jibing at his betters? At boys who can put him in their pockets, mentally, socially, person a l l y? What's his record?

Leave Braggart Alone
Instead of following this sort of braggart to pull him down to the level of his tormentor a boy should be able, should instinctively, turn his back to him and leave him where he stands: alone.

No test of anything worthwhile is in this challenge of "chicken." To accept it is to acknowledge himself a weakling, a fool.

Fear of death and danger is not cowardly. It is correct thinking. The bravest soldier, fireman, police officer, all who are exposed to danger in their pursuit of duty are afraid. They protect themselves as well as they can by obeying the rules of their profession. Self-protection is part of their duty.

They face fear and do their duty. That's what real boys do. They do not go wifely into danger. When faced by it they obey the rules and do what they must. This "chicken game" is the game of cheap cowards. Shun it.

Glamour Photographer Prefers American Models

BY PATRICK McNULTY

Hollywood — After a 7,500-mile search through Europe for beautiful models, movie glamour photographer Peter Gowland is back home with this sad story:

He should have stayed in Hollywood. With a dozen European countries and 20 models behind him, Gowland says American women are prettier, and perhaps more important to a glamour photographer — they aren't shy about taking off their clothes.

3-Month Safari

During the 3-month safari, Gowland discovered only one model willing to pose in the nude — an English showgirl in Paris named Bobby Naylor. The others? Too shy, says Gowland sadly — even the French girls.

But not the American beauties. Gowland's Hollywood models — and they include some of the movies' prettiest starlets — are happy to shed their clothes at the click of a camera shutter.

As one of Hollywood's leading pin up photographers, Gowland has a parade of beauties moving through his studio, home nestled in a rustic canyon in Santa Monica. His models include Jayne Mansfield, Venetia Stevenson and Mara Corday.

On the tour with his pretty wife, Alice, and their two daughters, Gowland searched high and low for enough models to fill a picture book on European lovelies. But he and his publisher had to change plans. Just couldn't find enough pretty girls.

Here's how Gowland rated some of the European girls: England — Best figures in Europe. British models combine a good body without too heavy a body — and they're not as self-conscious as most European girls.

Best Looking

Sweden — A bit too thin and certainly not the Anita Ekberg type, but the best looking. Why? Because they have small noses. Swedish models are the most natural looking, with no makeup.

French — Not the prettiest, by far, but definitely the most stylish. French models know how to make the best of what they have.

Denmark — Most like American girls in temperament, although they lack the well-developed bodies of American models. Most Danish models speak English and are easy to work with.

Germany — Many different types: blonde, brunette, thin, heavy. German girls have the best legs in Europe.

Hitch-Hiking Terrier Gets Ride, New Home

Fort Worth, Texas — Butch, a hitch-hiking fox terrier with a ready paw, not only got a ride but may have a new home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lance of Fort Worth noticed the dog waving frantically at cars on a snow-blown highway in north Texas last week.

They stopped and Butch hopped in their car. The brown-eyed white and tan terrier's name was on his collar, which listed his home as Midwest City, Okla.

"The veterinarian at Midwest said he belonged to an airman there who hadn't brought him in since 1958," Mrs. Lance said. "I may keep him if we can't locate the owner."

"He kept standing on his back paws and waving his front ones," Mrs. Lance said in explaining how he attracted their attention on the highway.

Milprint to Expand Plants In East, West

Consolidation of Operations Told by Packaging Firm

Milwaukee — A program of expansion and consolidation of manufacturing operations on both the east and west coast has been announced by Milprint, Inc.

Arthur Snapper, Milprint president, one of the nation's leading flexible packaging producers, said in a letter to workers that "it has been decided to strengthen our operations on the west coast and east coast by consolidating our manufacturing at one point in each area."

C. K. (Bob) Billeb, vice president in charge of Milprint's manufacturing operations, said that in the east the company is building an addition to its large plant in Downingtown, Pa. which facilities will absorb Milprint's present separate plant at Christiana, Pa.

Close in February
The Christiana plant will be closed in February and the Downingtown plant will be completed early in spring.

On the west coast, ground was broken last week for an addition to Milprint's plant in south San Francisco which is scheduled for completion around June 1. When the San Francisco plant is completed it will absorb all of the operations formerly done at the Los Angeles plant.

Billeb said Milprint will maintain its sales offices in Los Angeles and will thus be able to service that area from the south San Francisco plant.

stages of undress. The complete complement of nine lines and 2,800 feet of hose was used. All four Kimberly policemen were called to the scene.

William Courchane, fire chief, said the building was filled with smoke when the firemen arrived. He said it is believed the blaze started in the middle of the basement. The cause is still unknown. Some four to five feet of water prevented examination of the basement.

Fire in Walls

It took firemen about an hour to bring the blaze under control. Late this morning they were still on the scene knocking down flames working up through the walls.

The building formerly housed a restaurant and barber shop. The bar was opened about 25 years ago. Behrendt said, Clarence Michalkiewicz, Behrendt's son-in-law, operates the bar and barber shop.

About 12 years ago a dance hall and bar was added to the rear. The glass block bar shattered and collapsed in the heat and the huge back-bar cooler sagged part way through the floor, making work in the basement hazardous.

Neighbors and friends helped Behrendt carry out the bar stock to his home next door.

State Considers Smog Problems In California

Los Angeles — Gov. Edmund G. Brown will call a special legislative session in March to consider smog and education problems.

The governor, a Democrat, told a statewide radio-television audience Tuesday night that, among other things, he would:

Propose installation of anti-smog auto exhaust devices to clean up California's air.

Outline detailed recommendations for establishing a test center which would screen exhaust devices.

Submit a higher education plan which advocates tighter college entrance requirements to reduce swollen enrollment.

The lawmakers met Feb. 1 for the 30-day budget session. Brown can broaden the subject matter by calling a special session on other matters.

To Your Good Health

Mother Needlessly Upset Over Use of Medical Term

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I wish doctors would speak English to folks. Our daughter had a physical before entering college. On her report the doctor wrote, 'Increasing hilar markings,' and told us nothing. Maybe I sound stupid to you, but please tell me, Dr. Molner, is this a disease? What does one do for it, or watch out for? She also has a slight anemia."

—Mrs. M.C.

You ask a more difficult question than you realize, but I'll do my best.

There are good enough reasons for medical terms which, to non-professionals, seem to be just obscure jargon. "Increasing hilar markings" is a phrase used in interpreting X-rays, and the three words convey, to a physician, a description of part of the X-ray which otherwise would require considerable wordage.

And I'm not going to try to go into that, right now.

For College Doctor

I just hope you'll accept my word for it that it wouldn't be boring to you, and of no value. But the medical director at college will get the message at once.

It does not mean that a disease condition exists. Had there been such, you surely would have been informed of it. In this case, however, the report was intended primarily for the college, so that the authorities there would have an understanding of what your daughter is like from the standpoint of health.

I wonder if we can describe the situation this way if your daughter had had, say a congenital malformation of the hip which was corrected surgically, the medical report quite reasonably might make a notation of the fact, without any implications that there was anything wrong.

It may be, perhaps, that at some future time, in college or years after, an X-ray may be taken and show the hilar markings. If her record shows that they were noted when she was just starting college, and consequently are not new, that might in certain circumstances be a significant fact to

Fox Cities Area Selected for Study

officials are undecided whether it should cover only the Fox Cities (Kaukauna through Neenah), a somewhat larger area including Oshkosh or perhaps all of Outagamie and Winnebago counties, or whether the "valley" should be considered as extending from Green Bay through Fond du Lac.

Most of those present seemed to feel the Green Bay through Fond du Lac area would be too large, although V. I. Minahan, editor of the Post-Crescent, said he would prefer such a study "if it is feasible from a research standpoint." He suggested that men experienced in the field of urban research should be consulted on what size and characteristics an area should have to be valuable to researchers.

Sees Complications

C. J. Hansen, publisher of the Kaukauna Times, said he was not arguing against the larger area but pointed out that the Fox Cities constitute a good area for study because their economies are all based on the paper industry. Green Bay and Oshkosh, he said, have somewhat different economies and their inclusion might complicate matters.

Edward C. Cochran, publisher of the Twin City News-Record, Neenah, argued for the inclusion of Oshkosh in the study, pointing out that Neenah-Menasha industry is drawing quite a few employees from the Oshkosh area. Minahan agreed with him; the Fox Cities have been growing in a southward direction, and Fox Cities and Oshkosh area problems are becoming intertwined, as in the case of air service, he said.

Supv. Russell DeLallunt, Kaukauna, said that if Oshkosh is included, the Green Bay area should be too. Kaukauna has a relationship with Green Bay-De Pere somewhat similar to that between Neenah-Menasha and Oshkosh, he argued.

A Stride Forward

Gordon Bubolz, Appleton, said that no matter what area is selected "we are all deeply grateful that the university has selected the Fox valley for this study. Along with the work of such agencies as the (Fox Valley) regional planning commission, this could mean a great stride forward for all of us."

Dr. Adolfson said the university in recent years has realized that its farm-rural orientation has become out of date with the increasing urbanization of the state. The pilot studies made possible by the Ford Foundation grant are expected to point the way in which the university can develop services for the state's urban residents somewhat similar to those it has developed in the past for farmers and other rural people.

Program Undecided

The foundation is giving the university practically a "blank check" with respect to what areas the studies shall cover and how the money shall be spent, he said. Exactly what form the studies will take will depend on the needs of the areas involved, and local people and agencies — both governmental and private — will be consulted about this. About all that is definite so far is that Milwaukee and the Fox Valley will be two of the areas studied (perhaps the only ones), and that a top-level faculty-administration policy committee within the university will supervise the work.

Some newspaper reports have placed the Fox valley's share of the grant as high as $400,000. However, Dr. Adolfson said no allocations have been made, "and perhaps definite allocations in that sense never will be made."

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLIER

Imaginative Design Solves Practical Problems

The outdoors comes indoors to be delightfully welcoming in the entranceway of this apartment, and the dining room beyond acquires a handsome cabinet with the structural division between the two areas.

Interior designer Ruth L. Strauss, A. I. D., used slate for the covering of the entrance floor, and for the facing of a fish pool that's enhanced by big leafy plants. She mirrored the wall on one side of the pool to make it and the complete area seem twice as wide as they are. A slender strip of ceiling is lowered for the installation of spotlights, which set the water and the greenery sparkling. The divider structure Miss Strauss designed in walnut is both refinishing—how to do below ceiling level, to create an effect of openness while it yers at this newspaper and divides, and provides added close 15 cents, please, with a wall space. As a cabinet, it's stamped self-addressed envelope in every inch, with its open. Please allow approximate board-handly serving area.

Bright Foil Paper Used to Make Attractive Earrings

BY CAPPY DICK

With a pair of scissors, some thread and some colored foil paper a girl can make herself many pairs of striking earrings. The foil paper can be obtained from Christmas cards.

Three colors of foil are needed for each pair of earrings. A good combination is gold foil, green foil and red foil. Remove a piece of gold foil from a Christmas card and cut it into two small pieces of equal size. Because this type of foil has a paper surface on the reverse side, glue the two identical pieces back to back, making one piece that is gold on both sides. When the glue has dried, cut two leaves from the foil, shaping them as in Figure 1. The leaves should be about an inch and a quarter long.

String the leaves on a piece of thread (Figure 2) long enough to slip over your ear (Figure 4) after you have tied the ends. Then curl the leaves as in Figure 2, completing the earring.

Stars may be cut from the foil and strung as in Figure 3, making another style of earring. If you have any left over Christmas seals, glue them back to back and string them in the same manner. (Copyright, 1960)

Offer New Levies, Property Tax Cut

Suggestions Go to Citizen's Unit, Include Sales Charge

Madison — Seven specific proposals for revamping Wisconsin's tax structure-five of them pegged to a sales tax-will be presented to a citizens' committee on tax revision Friday.

All would raise 25 million dollars in additional revenues in the fiscal year beginning July 1. Growth factors in the proposals would swell the take on a level corresponding to the state economic climb.

Announcement of the seven proposals was made today by John Gronouski, research director of the 19-member committee. Gronouski also is Gov. Gaylord Nelson's choice for state tax commissioner. The appointment has not yet been confirmed.

Specific Points
Gronouski said the proposals originated with his research staff and would provide a basis for an eventual composite tax package the committee could recommend to the governor.

All seven packages have the following in common:

Homestead Exemption
All would provide substantial property tax relief, ranking up to 195 million dollars.

The commission has indicated that one of its primary goals is the revision of the state tax structure to assure some relief for the property tax burden, and the homestead exemption idea is one of those being explored.

Some states have general homestead exemptions that apply only to state property taxes, including Minnesota. Wisconsin does not levy state property taxes to any extent. The property tax burden is one that is imposed by local governments. The state property tax is limited to one of two tenths of a mill, the receipts segregated for forestry purposes through constitutional law.

A $15,000 value homestead exemption would knock out about $195,000,000 from the state property tax budget, or virtually all of the residential property tax liability which last year was computed at about $228,000,000.

Renters Question
The staff report noted that one of the difficulties with a residential exemption proposal is the fact that about 35 per cent of the taxpayers of the state live in rented quarters and would not automatically benefit from such a law.

It suggested the possibility of making some of the benefits available to tenants, perhaps through income tax credits or other means.

Three packages carry a 3 per cent sales tax and two would levy the tax at the 2 per cent level. The sales tax proposals would raise from $107,800,000 to $187,950,000 a year.

Auto Levy
The sales tax plans under consideration would apply to all tangible consumer goods and a wide range of services. The property tax on motor vehicles, which would be pegged to the blue book value, would raise an estimated $28 million a year. It would be based on the average state property tax rate.

'Bud' Wilkinson Denies He Plans to Quit Coaching

BY JIM KENSIL

New York — The fifty-fourth annual NCAA convention reached its climax today amid speculation that "Bud" Wilkinson of Oklahoma may retire from coaching football.

Friends and colleagues of Wilkinson feel that the indefinite probation leveled this week on Oklahoma by the National Collegiate Athletic Association has disillusioned Wilkinson to the extent that he will quit football, despite his tremendous, 121-13-3 record as head coach of the Sooners.

Wilkinson also is athletic director at Oklahoma which he has led to three national championships and 12 consecutive Big Eight conference titles.

The former Minnesota star, currently in Hawaii to coach in the Hula bowl, finished the season with a 7-3 record, his worst of 13 seasons at the Norman, Okla. school.

In Hawaii, Thursday night the Sooner coach denied that he will quit. He made no further comment.

Comments from friends, Big Eight colleagues, coaches and newspapermen who are close to Bud, could be summed up generally:

"He saw this (the probation) coming, and it will break his heart. Bud's record is cleaner than that of 90 percent of the coaches in the country. He loved to win, but he played by all the rules, both on the field and off. And the worst blow of all is that another coach, blew the whistle on him." No one cared to identify the "other coach," and the NCAA never discloses the sources of information which lead to its investigations.

No Official Standing
The NCAA has continually emphasized that Wilkinson and all other school officials connected with Oklahoma athletics have cooperated fully. But executive director Walter Byers says the NCAA must stand firm until full records of a recruiting fund are made available to the NCAA.

The hitch is that these records are in the possession of Arthur L. Wood of Oklahoma City, who has no official standing with the university.

Wood won't disclose the records, and until he does, the NCAA won't budge. Oklahoma, in the middle, meanwhile is barred from all post-season football games and NCAA-controlled TV.

The Oklahoma case continued to overshadow the normal sessions of the convention, as the group's business session was held today.

NFL's Decision on Expansion is Near

Marshall, Halas Still Disagree

Miami Beach, Fla. — The question of expanding the National Football league grows hotter by the day as time nears for league directors to meet here Jan. 20. Two titans of pro ball — George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, and George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears — added fuel to the fire Thursday.

At Miami Beach, Marshall indicated that if NFL league magnates win their fight for immediate expansion, the battle will be continued in court.

'Plenty of Counsel'
Marshall, who has warned that expansion now would open the league to anti-trust charges, said "I will go into the meeting with plenty of legal counsel."

In Chicago, Halas said "I think we would violate the anti-trust law by not expanding. Marshall should realize that it is monopolistic to require a unanimous, or even a 10-out-of-12 vote, for expansion. That rule is monopolistic in itself."

In New York, meanwhile, the head of the American Football league threatened to go to congress if necessary to protect the right of the infant circuit.

Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, accused the NFL of "hostile action" and "harassing tactics."

Dave LaViolette, senior guard, will start for the Appleton High school basketball team when it enters Sheboygan North tonight.

Sid Gillman Signs To Coach Chargers

Becomes Second Mentor of Fledgling Entry in AFL

Los Angeles — Even in this town where coaches last about as long as a blind man on the freeway during rush hour, the Los Angeles Chargers are something of an oddity.

The fledgling entry of the new American Football league has had two head coaches—and has yet to field a team.

The latest is long-suffering Sid Gillman, who signed a 3-year contract Thursday. Gillman was fired by the rival Los Angeles Rams after a miserable, 2-10 record last season. He had coached the Rams five seasons, and was their fifth mentor in 10 years.

The Chargers' other coach lasted just one day.

He was Bob McBride, former assistant at Notre Dame to Frank Leahy, now the Chargers' general manager. A few weeks ago Leahy announced McBride's appointment. A day later, McBride, who had been out of football for several years, announced his resignation.

Gillman's salary terms were not disclosed. But his pay is believed to be comparable to the annual $25,000 he got from the Rams.

Indiana '5' Meets Ohio State in Big 10 Feature

By The Associated Press

Still seeking his first Big Ten coaching victory, Wisconsin's John Erickson took a squad of 12 to Lafayette, Ind., today for the Badgers basketball game against Purdue (1-0) Saturday night.

Wisconsin is seeking its initial victory after dropping games to Michigan State and Iowa.

It's do or die for twice-beaten Indiana, a prime Big Ten pre-season choice, in its regionally - televised basketball game at Ohio State Saturday.

Another loss and the Hoosiers, who have succumbed surprisingly to Purdue and Northwestern in their first two conference starts, would be jolted out of title consideration.

The game, which features the Buckeyes sensational 28-2-point averaging sophomore, Jerry Lucas, should be one of the best of the season.

The rest of the conference card Saturday sends Michigan (0-0) to Michigan State (1-0), Minnesota (1-0) to Illinois (0-1) and Northwestern (1-0) to Iowa, 1-1.

'Operation Moore' Was Speedy

Only 3 First Draft Picks Officially Signed by NFL

BY ART DALEY

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Tom Moore was signed to a Packer contract just about 24 hours after he was drafted last Nov. 30—thanks to the magic of the telephone and the airplane!

That may sound like stale news and idle chatter but the Packers' quickness in officially registering their first choice becomes hot copy these days when half the clubs face the prospect of losing their first picks to the American Football league.

Anxious to Play
Moore was picked about 10 a. m., Packerland time, by Coach Vince Lombardi at the draft in Philadelphia. Verne Lewellen got the phone's message immediately and was in flight by noon toward Nashville, where Moore's school, Vanderbilt, is located. Lewellen chatted with Moore that night — before the draft was even finished, and signed him the next day.

"Nice kid," Lewellen recalled today, "and he's anxious to play with us. He's a strong-looking athlete and he's interested in playing pro football for a long time."

Moore also heard about Green Bay from "Baby" Ray, the former Packer, and Art Gupe, former Marquette star, who are Vanderbilt coaches. In fact, Ray still spends an occasional summer vacation on the Bay.

Actually, only three first draft picks have been announced as signed — Moore, the Cardinals' George Izo of Notre Dame, and the 49-er's Monte Stickles of Notre Dame. Reportedly in the fold are the Browns, Jim Houston, the Bears' Roger Davis and the Eagles' Ron Burton.

Three of the remaining six have signed AFL contracts. Two have signed contracts with both leagues and may be the centers of legal battles and one is leaning toward the new league.

Signs With Buffalo
Quarterback Richie Lucas of Penn State, the Redskins' first pick has signed with Buffalo. Tackle Ron Mix of Southern California, the Colts' top selection, went to the Los Angeles Chargers. Fullback Jack Spikes of TCU, the Steelers' first choice, signed with Houston.

Halfbacks Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson, both of LSU, signed with the Rams and Lions, respectively, and Turn to Page 3, Col. 5

California May Seek Boxing Hook-Up With State of New York

Bolts NBA; Might Recommend Federal Control of Sport

Sacramento, Calif. — California's bolting of the National Boxing association today brought a strong hint this state may seek closer cooperation with New York or possibly recommend federal control of the sport.

"If federal control is constructive, we would be all for it," declared Jack W. Urch, executive officer of the California Athletic commission.

He added the state is willing to join with any group dedicated to restoring boxing to "the high pinnacle of public esteem that it deserves."

New York and Massachusetts are the only other states outside the NBA. The former, in recent months, has conducted several investigations of boxing.

Urch said he urged the NBA last September to take steps to clean up the sport and warned that federal intervention was likely. A committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) is reported ready to start a nationwide investigation.

Laws Needed
Last Aug. 25, California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown suggested at a news conference that some national boxing laws were needed "because this boxing business is apparently infiltrated with racketeers and gangsters." Brown said he may recommend banning the sport if congress doesn't act on the matter this session.

The state commission did not appear in any mood to reconsider.

In the past year, California suspensions have not been upheld by other NBA members. The state refused a managerial license to Al Weill, who handled "Rocky" Marciano when he was champion. It also suspended Larry Boardman of Marlboro, Conn., and his father-manager, Sam.

The Boardmans had their California licenses suspended for pulling out of a fight at Hollywood Legion stadium, but reportedly are operating in Florida.

"The NBA took the attitude that there is no sin in our house," Urch said Thursday. "But facts are facts. You can't deny them."

Bartmann Leads Foxes' Scoring With 16.3 Average

Senior forward Roger Bartmann is the leading scorer on the Fox Valley Lutheran High school basketball team, which plays tonight against Wisconsin Lutheran of Milwaukee.

The Foxes will seek revenge for an earlier 51-45 loss in the game, slated to start at approximately 8 p. m. at the Fox Lutheran gym.

Luebke Second
Bartmann has totaled 179 points in the Foxes' 11 games (including a victory over the alumni for a 16-3 average). The club's second high point-maker is senior guard Bob Luebke, with 129, while Darrell Mindel, with 71, is third.

Luebke has the top field goal percentage among the regulars (.359). While Bartmann owns the leading free throw mark (.726), Bartmann has 106 rebounds and Darrell Mindel has 102. Mindel (.349) possesses the second best field goaling rate and Jack Kitowski (.625) the runnerup free throwing mark, among regulars.

Fox Lutheran has scored 539 points to the opposition's 574, for per-game averages of 49 and 52.1, respectively.

CD Will Help Boat Owners Number Craft

Madison — The State Conservation department will work out plans for helping boat owners number their craft under Wisconsin's new boating law.

The Conservation commission said Thursday night provisions for putting numbers on boats were inadequate and told the department to try to come up with a plan for furnishing numbers or stencils.

The new law calls for registering boats and the display of a craft's number on the bow.

'Big O' Stars As Feeder; Bearcats Win

Scores 27 Against Wichita; Bradley Trips Tulsa, 71-58

By The Associated Press
Even when he has a bad night in scoring—that is if you think 27 is bad—Oscar Robertson is a tough man to beat.

The versatile All-America collected only 27 points—13.7 under his record scoring average this season—but showed his class as a "feeder" by sparking unbeaten Cincinnati to a 76-69 Missouri Valley conference victory over the Shockers at Wichita Thursday night.

Robertson made only nine points in the first half but set up his teammates with just as devastating effect for a 47-29 lead. Wichita kept whittling Cincy's margin in the second half but the "Big O," guarded closely by 6-10 Gene Wiley and 6-4 Ron Heller, popped in eight points to preserve Cincinnati's unbeaten record.

Cincinnati, the nation's No. 1 team, now has an 11-0 record. But there may be trouble ahead for the Bearcats. They showed, even in victory, that they missed their powerful defenseman, Bob Wiesenhahn, who broke a foot bone in scrimmage Monday night.

Robertson and Co. move to Tulsa Saturday for a clash with the Hurricanes who proved surprisingly tough against Bradley's fourth-ranked club at Tulsa. The Braves found it difficult to beat Tulsa, 71-58.

In the other MVC contests, twelfth-ranked St. Louis (9-3) outclassed Houston, 74-46, and Drake whipped North Texas State, 85-73.

St. Joseph of Philadelphia (9-2), made up a 16-point deficit in whipping St. John (NY) 82-77. It was the Hawks' first win over St. John in Madison Square Garden in 11 attempts.

She's on Merry-Go-Round

Carol Heiss Crams for Exams and Next Month's Winter Olympics

New York — Carol Heiss is a girl on a perpetual merry-go-round — cramming for college examinations and next month's Winter Olympics.

"I'm living on excitement, I hardly have time to breathe," the sparkling queen of the Carol Heiss world's figure skaters said after whirling through a 41-hour skating program Thursday at Madison Square Garden.

Rises at Daybreak
"But this is the moment I seem to have lived for — winning an Olympic gold medal — and I can't take it lightly. As much work as is needed to win, I'll gladly give."

Carol, 20-year-old daughter of a baker, rises at daybreak each morning and catches a subway to the Garden where she practices painstakingly under the eye of her coach, Pierre Brunet. Then it's off to New York university — where she is a junior — followed by afternoon ballet lessons, involved fittings for her Olympic costume and finally back home to study until past midnight.

"I have three more exams, tough ones, before I leave Jan. 24 for the national championships and Olympic trials at Seattle," she said. "When I'm through with 'hem, I can concentrate on my skating."

Miss Heiss is regarded as a cinch to win the women's Olympic figure skating crown at Squaw Valley, Calif., starting Feb. 18.

Since losing in the 1956 Olympics, Carol, 4-time winner of the world's title, has had a driving ambition to capture the Olympic gold medal.

Paper Says Oakland Granted Franchise in American Grid League

Los Angeles — Oakland has been granted a franchise in the American Football league, the Los Angeles Times said today.

Ernie Nevers, former Stanford university football star, will run the front office of the new franchise, the Times said. Other franchises have been awarded Denver, Dallas, Houston, New York, Boston, Buffalo and Los Angeles.

Not too much is known about Harrington around these parts. He is not rated. In his home town bouts last year he won and lost to "Tombstone" Smith and dropped a decision to Virgil Akins, the former welterweight champion, while winning five of seven for the year. His record, dating back to 1953, is 34-5-1 with 21 knockouts.

Ortega is favored. The 10-round match will be carried by network (NBC) radio and television.

new 2-year football television contract plan. And a constitutional amendment dealing with foreign athletes.

The TV contract plan, part of the TV committee's overall recommendations, would for the first time empower the unit to deal with the television network for two years rather than one. The idea is to give sponsors advertising continuity. It was expected to pass easily on the convention floor.

The alien athlete amendment would prevent foreign students from competing after they reach the age of 23. It would also bar those below the age of 23 from post-season NCAA championship events until they had spent two years in residence at a U. S. school.

FACE TARGET — CORRECT ANGLE

BOWLING Spares Tip

There are three specific rules for shooting at any spare. Face your target from the correct angle by squaring your shoulders to the target. Walk directly toward your target, like in the cases of the 7-pin and the 10-pin, which means you'll go to the foul line at a slight angle. Make sure you have your right arm following through directly toward your target, whether it be pin or spot.

The Job of "making weight" — a constant problem for boxers and wrestlers — is a chore that doesn't exist for the great majority of football players.

The severe rigors involved were described for me over the holidays by Appleton-native Joe Stringham, a member of the 1959 West Point 150-pound grid squad. Stringham, former Appleton High school griddier and track man, earned his second "A" last fall with the Army 150-pounders.

Joe, whose natural weight is about 175, started the 1959 season with the West Point varsity after playing 150-pound ball last year. But, he soon tired of being on the "meat" team for such talented performers as "lonesome end" Bill Carpenter, Bob Anderson and Joe Caldwell.

So he returned to the lightweight where he became a regular on the second, or "horde", unit as a guard and defensive linebacker.

In addition to the expected amount of dieting done by most members of the 150-pound outfit, Joe and his friends spent plenty of time prior to the weigh-in, (the day before each game in a steam room).

There, the last few pounds of moisture were dried out. "Several times I sat in there for 15 minutes without perspiring a bit," remembers Joe. "Then, I'd haul on a rubber jacket and rubber pants and start doing laps around a track to work off the final ounces."

In the day that elapsed between the weigh-in and game time, Stringham and his com-

ARD Hockey Season Will Open Sunday

Action in a 6-team Appleton Recreation department Major Hockey league begins Sunday evening. The circuit is for men 18 years old and older. Six teams is the largest complement of teams the league has had in at least six years.

First game pairings, with managers' names in parentheses, are: Rangers (David Pennings) vs. Ponds (Tom Kotke) and Berggren's (John Krueger) against SSAC (Jerry Cavert), Sunday.

The Blue Streaks (Jim Coenen) play the Play Boys ("Chuck" Van Zealand) Tuesday evening.

High Pressure Sales Pitch Rickey's Verbal Blast at Nats Belies His 'Olive Branch' Approach

Minneapolis — Baseball patriarch Branch Rickey pictured himself today as a man "clothed in olive branches" in the hope of getting his new Continental league peacefully accepted by the present majors.

But in the climax of two days of high pressure campaigning to keep Minneapolis-St. Paul in the Continental fold, he aimed a rhetorical barrage at any lingering hopes here that the Washington Senators can be persuaded to switch their franchise to the Twin Cities.

Vigorous Sales Pitch Rickey denied the Continental regards the Twin Cities as a battlefield between the Continental and the majors. Yet, the vigor of the Continental sales pitch made it clear the new league puts a high value on keeping the franchise.

The 79-year-old Rickey won important converts in the Twin Cities. He wants quick action on obtaining use of Metropolitan stadium.

Yet, at least one key figure in Minneapolis' negotiations for a big league franchise indicated he has not abandoned the idea of bringing the Senators here.

Gerald Moore, chairman of the city's baseball committee, said the contract under which the Boston Red Sox lease the stadium for their American association farm club gives the Red Sox "first refusal" on any major league franchise move here.

Rickey Thursday night offered a frightening portrait of Minneapolis-St. Paul baseball under the Senators' franchise.

"By the 15th of July there would be nobody to see your games," he said. "There would be no farms, no benches, no second basemen, no third-string catcher."

Rickey said he was certain the American league would not permit removal of the club from Washington, a venture Moore and other local negotiators have been trying to bring off for two years.

The NFL is up against a stone wall in dealing with their draft choices—at least the top two or three choices. AFL clubs are offering certain employment—in other words, non-release (locked-in) contracts.

Clubs in the NFL won't (except in the case of a Jim Thorpe, and then maybe) give "sure" pacts. It would be unfair to the veterans and just plain poor business to gamble that two or three horses will be winners.

The AFL is dishing out fantastic amounts for certain key players. Lucas is supposed to have received a 3-year no-release pact for $50,000. Cannon has something similar—with a dental business on the side.

So what happens if Lucas doesn't pan out or if some Joe from Podunk beats him out? Joe might want one of those lock-ups, too.

Lombardi said recently that "we'll not give a rookie more money than the veteran is getting in that position." The Packers figure to lose some of their draft choices because of "impossible" situations. Some of those kids are talking bonuses and non-release contracts. Can you imagine that," Vince said the other day.

The signing of Moore looks like a better stroke of business every day. Incidentally, he'll be playing for South in the TV'd (channel 5) Senior bowl Saturday afternoon.

The Packers' No. 2 choice is Bob Jeter, the halfback from Iowa, who is reportedly going to the country most Iowa athletes call their home — Canada. There's a story going around that Jeter already has signed up north but would like to come back to dear old Green Bay.

Milwaukee Man Gets 30 Years On Rape Charge

Milwaukee — A 26-year-old man charged with forcibly raping a white woman was sentenced to 30 years in prison Thursday after the prosecutor had termed the crime "the act of an animal."

Municipal Judge Herbert J. Steffes imposed sentence on Herman C. Virgil who was found guilty by an all-male jury. Virgil, a Negro, will be examined for 60 days at the Waupun prison under the sex deviate law and returned to court if he is found to be a deviate.

A 26-year-old woman said she was dragged into an automobile and attacked Aug. 24, 1956.

Peter Wills, an assistant district attorney who prosecuted the case, told Judge Steffes that if 50 years were permissible under the statute, his office would have asked that term for Virgil. Wills described Virgil as having been "out to get a white woman." He called the crime "an act of brutality, the act of an animal."

Judge Steffes commented additionally that "a woman should be entitled to walk the streets freely. This not only is a forcible, savage type of rape, but a cowardly act, a most distasteful type of offense."

Badgers Seek 1st Loop Win Against Purdue

Rohn concedes that "Ohio State is the most likely champion, but is followed closely by Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan State and Purdue."

Even with a 61-57 victory over Indiana Monday, in which Wildcat rookie Bill Cacciatori scored 27 points, Rohn thinks his team is destined to wind up in the last three along with Wisconsin and Michigan.

"Too much inexperience," he says.

The slow-down tactics being used so far against Indiana may be Ohio State's strategy Saturday when the 6-8 Lucas must face such giants as 6-11 Walt Bellamy and 6-7 Frank Radovich.

The Buckeyes have an 8-2 overall record thus far and are ranked No. 7 nationally. Their only Big Ten start thus far was a 97-73 win over Illinois.

Ohio State has been installed a 13-point favorite over Indiana. Iowa is rated 12 over Northwestern, MSU 14 over Michigan, Illinois seven over Minnesota and Purdue 12 over Wisconsin.

Welfare Board Maps Plans for New Office

Law Library to Have as Much Space As Before in New Setup, Chairman Says

Oshkosh — The welfare board Thursday discussed its tagesously and more efficient needs for the remodeling of the present law library in the courthouse and the moving of that library into space now occupied by the welfare department.

Supv. John Wallace, welfare board chairman, will meet tonight with the public building committee to discuss the remodeling project ordered by the county board Wednesday on a 34 to 10 vote.

A general fund transfer of $20,000 for the work needed two-thirds of the board membership to approve the transfer or 34 votes.

In making the switch from its present quarters, the welfare board said it will be having less total space than what it has now but it will be able to do similar work.

Confidential Conferences

It will permit caseworkers to have confidential conferences with welfare recipients and to dictate letters by setting up small offices. Present facilities make such interviews and dictation very difficult, the welfare board indicated.

The welfare board said it plans to provide the lawyers with an attractive law library and as much space as is now available in the present law library.

The committees plan to view the facilities in the new courthouses at Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids to get an idea of their layouts for similar work.

Lake Forest Woman Has Many Roots in County, State History

BY MARION DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — Mrs. Alfred Granger, 82, who is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Shepard, 411 Lake road, has a great many roots in Winnebago county and Wisconsin through the men in her family, although she has never lived here herself.

She was married to a successful young architect in 1895. One of the last buildings designed by Mr. Granger was the Winnebago County courthouse, Oshkosh, completed in June 1938. His family was touched and proud to see the flag on the building at half-staff when they were returning to Menasha from his funeral in 1939.

Mr. Granger was an architect for many of the buildings of the University of Illinois and for the Chicago and North Western Railway station in Chicago, built in 1911 at a cost of $24,000,000. He also designed many private houses, including the house built by the Shepards in 1931, in which they still live.

An aristocratic, charming and world-traveled lady, who has lived most of her life in Lake Forest, Ill., Mrs. Granger reminisces about her husband and her father, Marvin Hughitt, with pride, deep affection and a twinkle in her eye.

C & NW

Mr. Hughitt was president of the Chicago and North Western railway from 1887 to 1910. "Many people have told me that my father had more to do with opening up the middle west and the north west than any single person," Mrs. Granger remarked. "He was of course vitally interested in acquiring new territory for the railroad, and spent most of his time traveling on his private car, then continuing on horseback to buy territory from the Indians, enlarging the system to its present 10,000 miles of track. He would sit in their tepees patiently for hours, while they considered the pros and cons of giving the road the right-of-way."

"As I was the youngest of the six children in the family, my mother and I often traveled with him and some of my most vivid recollections are of the Indian women who got aboard the car in northern Wisconsin and Minnesota to give us pairs of blue-beries and beautifully woven baskets."

Mrs. Robert Kramer, Kaukauna, was her cousin's daughter and her bridesmaids were Miss Veronica Glodowski, Des Plaines, Ill., sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary Weyers, Black Creek, bride's sister, was junior attendant.

Jerome Glodowski attended his brother as best man and John Bruecker, brother of the bride, and Robert Kramer, Kaukauna, were groomsmen. Ronald Nytes and Raymond Haen, Kaukauna, cousins of the bride, ushered.

A dinner and buffet supper were held at the parish hall and the Nichols ballroom was the site for a reception and dance.

Mrs. Glodowski is a graduate of Seymour High school. Her husband served in the air force and is now employed at Marathon Division of American Can Company.

The newlyweds are residing at 414 Twelfth street, Neenah.

The Kocks live in Washington where he still writes newspaper and magazine articles.

She has five grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren, whom she sees often and knows well. There is no doubt at all that they will remember their grandmother as a "young" woman.

Suggests New Provision in Building Code

Council Orders Clearing of Debris Between 2 Homes

Neenah — Prohibiting basements under homes in areas with a high water table was proposed to the Neenah council Wednesday night by Ald. Warren Sanders.

He asked that the plans and commission study include such a provision in the building code. Sanders thought that basement flooding might be more predominant in areas with a high water table.

The building inspector was instructed to take all necessary steps to clear debris stored between two homes on Wright avenue after a petition from eight persons was filed in protest of what they called an unsightly condition.

Previous Complaints City Clerk R. V. Hauser said previous complaints about this site had been received and acted on by the building inspector but that the debris had accumulated since then.

Ald. Ewald Miller added that the property owners have been prosecuted before and that the police and fire chief have also been out to view the site. The debris he said is being placed near the city setback line.

The city attorney was instructed to complete the transaction with Peter Jurgenson for acquiring for $3,000 the necessary land for the completion of proposed Haylett avenue between Maple and Commercial streets. Ald. Carl Coenen voted against the motion, saying it would mean the city would have to flood out several houses to flood out the Sixth ward.

A class B tavern license was issued to Kenneth M. Gan Power company.

OSC Concert Band To Give Program

Oshkosh — The first major concert of the new year will be presented by Oshkosh State college concert band at 8 p.m. Jan. 18 in the College Little Theater. There will be no admission charge.

Willis Buettner, director, said the band will present a variety of music including Latin American selections, marches, a ballet suite and a tango lullaby. The concert will be climaxed with the finale from "The West Point Symphony" by Robert Dvorak.

A feature of the program will be the appearance of Donald F. Johnson, Waupun, a retired army band director and a student at the college, who will conduct the band in his own arrangement of the popular "Yours" by Rous.

Two students will be featured as soloists. They are Rochelle Gerber, Plymouth, featured on the clarinet; and Tom Lamere, Oshkosh, featured on the French horn.

Area students who will play in the concert include Louise Baier, Thomas-C. Fiebig, Richard Fine, Joyce Galow, John Holland, George Immisch, Thomas Lamere, LaVern Lorbiecki, David Markowski, Leonard Ott, Mark Robertson, Thomas J. Spalding and Virginia Wojahn, all of Oshkosh.

Rosalie Barnhart and Gail A. Ridley, Waupaca; Susan Rhein, Marvin Ludwig and James Westerhouse, Chilton; Gerald J. Green, Gary W. Longie and Marlene Verdette, Green Bay; Robert A. Gruetzman, Neenah; Donna Ernst, 218 W. Wisconsin ave.

The bid of the Mobil Oil company for six months of gasoline was accepted by the council as being the lowest acceptable bid since one did not have the required accompanying check and another was not a firm bid.

Referred to the finance committee was a certificate from the Wisconsin department of taxation to the effect that Neenah had been erroneously credited with $51.67 that belonged to New London. The city clerk mentioned that the city received $46,833 in utility tax apportionment, the largest item of which was $44,607 from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Agent Gives 4-Point Plan for Synthetics Care

Oshkosh — A 4-point plan for care of synthetic garments has been listed by Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent. With more of the family's wardrobe being made of man-made fibers, it is well to check your washing methods, she suggests.

A homemaker should remember four points for best washing results. First, wash garments often and before they are too soiled; use soft, warm water, not hot, and rinse very thoroughly.

Second, if there are badly soiled areas such as collars and cuffs, pre-treat them by rubbing with a paste made of detergent and water or liquid detergent.

Third, be sure to wash your white articles such as shirts, blouses and under garments only with other white articles. This will prevent picking up the colors of other synthetics.

Fourth, if you have fancy sweaters or blouses with special delicate trim, it is best to wash them by hand.

In machine washing, you can drip dry the garments by taking them from the machine before they reach the spin-dry cycle. Then, hang on a hanger and shape.

If you have a dryer, let the garments go through the complete washing cycle, then put in the dryer at medium temperature. Let dry about 10 minutes, then turn off the heat and let the clothes tumble for another 10 minutes.

Standpipes in Sewers Not Answer to Problem

Ald. Coenen Feels Excessive Use May Spread Flooding to Other Areas

Neenah — The use of standpipes and check valves in basement sewers to prevent a back up of sewage into their homes will move this condition into other areas of the city, Ald. Carl Coenen, Sixth ward council member, declared at Wednesday night's council meeting.

He said the problem is not only that of the Sixth ward, hardest hit in the Christmas weekend flooding, but of the entire city since "every time this happens, more people install standpipes and check valves and this moves the condition into other areas. "These standpipes and check valves also create a building up of pressure in sewer lines to the street, in fact, in the whole sewerage system."

"The people in these areas, and especially in the Sixth ward, had a lot of damage and suffered unnecessary hardships. They are just plain fed up with it," Ald. Coenen stressed. He told of them being without heat for most of several days and of some having damages up to $500 to equipment plus basement floors heaving and walls cracking with possible caving in and other undetectable damage at present.

Policemen of The Fox Cities

(This is another in a series of stories on Fox Cities area policemen.) Miss Marcia M. Pfeiffer, 21, of 1241 Campbell street, Neenah, began work with the Neenah police force on July 1, 1958, when the office of police department secretary was created.

She lists golfing, knitting and skiing as her hobbies. She attended Miss Pfeiffer Oshkosh State college before taking the police department post.

He cited one home to which he had been called where the owner was afflicted with arthritis which could have been seriously aggravated by the damp basement.

Ald. Coenen thanked the civil defense for its action during the emergency and readiness to help out and also to the firemen for their aid, for without them the damages would have been much greater.

He recalled there had been flooding five years ago but nothing compared to the recent incident.

"My own personal opinion is that we are adding too many outlying sewers and trying to empty them into the old existing main sewers. They will not do the job."

"At one of our last meetings, six aldermen voted against taking off the $300 per acre annexation fee and I was one of them. As long as these sewers continue to back up in any section of the city, I will vote against any annexation. I am all for the city growing, but not until we take care of what we already have."

"These people pay the same tax rate as anyone else in the city and we can't blame them for expecting the same services," he called for securing an engineering firm to study the sewerage problem.

Salary Set For Family Court Official

James G. Sarres, Oshkosh Attorney, Named to Post

Oshkosh — A salary of $5,000 was set up for the newly-created post of family court commissioner by the Winnebago county board of supervisors Wednesday.

James G. Sarres, who formerly served as divorce counsel, has been appointed commissioner by Circuit Judge Helmuth F. Arps, effective Jan. 6.

The $5,000 salary was recommended by the board's personnel and judiciary committees which met Wednesday morning. In addition, Sarres is to be furnished office space in the courthouse after March 1 and part-time stenographic help. The board also agreed to a $500 appropriation for office furnishings and supplies.

Outlines Duties Sarres did not request office space in the courthouse, but board members agreed that the public and attorneys would prefer to be able to contact him at the courthouse at specified times. Sarres is presently working out of his own law office in Oshkosh.

Tuesday morning Sarres outlined his new duties before the board, saying he would have to investigate cases where a divorced man wished to remarry, to check marriage applications, to discuss legal procedures in divorces or legal separations, to arrange reconciliation meetings and to appear in court with written recommendations on property settlements and on custody of children.

Sarres said 198 divorce actions were begun last year and 120 were completed, necessitating about six or seven hours of his time in each case.

In 1958 the collection was $245,349 in the normal tax and $73,637 in the emergency tax. Of this the county kept $18,401 and sent $291,131 on to the state.

Menasha, idle since beating New London three weeks ago, collide with Shawano on the latter's court. In other league games, unbeaten Clintonville is host to Kaukauna and Kimberly goes to New London.

Coach Don Bartelt's Neenah Bees romped over Appleton in their last outing after trimming Kaukauna in their final league game of 1959. Their overall record is now 5-3. Two Rivers has a 2-2 league record on wins over Menasha and Kaukauna and losses to Shawano and Kimberly.

Wayland Posts 2-2 League Mark; Splits Even in Two Games Against FVCC Squads

Menasha — St. Mary's un-beaten Zephyrs attempt to add another scalp to their impressive collection when they take on the Wayland academy Redmen Saturday night at Beaver Dam.

The Menashans boast a string of 10 straight successes, eight during their regular schedule, plus two more in winning the championship of the Marinette holiday tourney.

Wayland currently holds a 2-2 record in Midwest Prep conference play. The Redmen are scheduled to play the Northwestern Prep team of Watertown tonight.

Defeats St. John In competition against other Fox Valley conference teams this season, Wayland turned back Little Chute St. John but was defeated by Fond du Lac Springs.

The Beaver Dam academy has five returning lettermen. Bruce Jablonski, Bull Dumnuck, Don Frederick and Renny Challoner saw action against the Zephyrs last season. Jim Christians, a 3-year veteran, didn't play.

Dumnuck had 18 points in the St. John game but yielded point honors to Christians, who tallied 20. Jablonski collected nine in each game against the FVC quintets.

Reinjoins Knee The Zephyrs gained the services of Jim Rueckl for the last Saturday's Alumni game but he reentered his knee during practice this week and his status for Saturday is questionable.

Junior center Mike Kiefer (6-5) who missed the Marinette tournament because of a knee injury, isn't expected to play either.

Terms of Four Regents Will Expire Soon

Democrats Can Come Close to College Control

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—The Democratic state administration can come close to taking over control of the state college system through the replacement of four members of the board of regents of state colleges whose terms expire next month.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson picked two new regents during the first year of his term, and with four more vacancies coming up soon will be in a position to have six appointees out of a board of 12 citizens members. State Superintendent George Watson serves as the 13th member ex officio.

Nearing the end of their five-year terms are Robert L. Pierce of Menomonie, Harold Andersen of Whitewater, Lyle Jenkins of Stevens Point and Harold Geyer of Platteville.

All are Republicans, and it is presumed that the governor will relieve them of their duties.

The offices do not provide salaries but the state reimburses regents for their expenses in the course of their work.

Gov. Nelson indicated last year, moreover, that he is interested in breaking the tradition that regents should be chosen from among the residents of the localities that have the state colleges.

His first two nominations were persons who lived elsewhere, and to the surprise of many Capitol observers, the governor won the approval of the state senate for his choices.

Increase Sought in Milk Funds

Washington—(AP)—Rep. Lester Johnson (D-Wis.) is seeking to increase funds for the children's special milk program for the next year and a half.

He has drafted a bill to raise the amount of commodity credit corporation funds that could be used for the milk program from a maximum of $81 million to $85 million for the fiscal year ending June 30. It would also increase the maximum of $84 million authorized for the following fiscal year to $90 million.

Johnson said the program, which was started in 1954, now benefits about half of the school children in the country. During the last school year, he said, about 80,000 schools and child-care institutions took part in the program, receiving about 2,175,000,000 half-pints of milk.

Deplore Boat License Law Complexities

Officials Say Public Will Not Obey Willingly

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Conservation commissioners are annoyed by what they call unnecessary complexities in the new state boat licensing law, effective April 1.

Members of the commission Thursday night complained the public may not comply willingly with the new act because of "mistaken inconveniences" imposed on boat owners.

They concentrated their fire on the requirement that the department send out boat registration numbers to boat owners, and the owners fix the numbers to their craft themselves.

Prepared Plates?

"Imagine the motor vehicle department sending out numbers and asking the motorists to paint them on their cars," grumbled Arthur MacArthur, commission chairman, Charles F. Smith, Wausau, thought the state should bear the small expense of providing prepared number plates for the licenses, since it charges a $3 license fee.

Department officials doubted they could do so under the law, and warned that the legislature is not likely to respond to amendments until the 1961 session.

It had been guessed that about 200,000 boats powered by motors or sails would be licensed, but the department now says the number will reach 235,000.

Chief Warden George Hadland explained his men will enforce the licensing requirements tolerantly, at least for the first year. He said he expects 90 per cent of the owners to apply for licenses without pressure. Applications now are being received at the rate of about 500 a day.

The commission has issued an order covering details of its policies, but it will hold a public hearing on it at Oshkosh, Jan. 18, in compliance with the law.

Report About Town Sewer Delayed

Menasha Problems Referred to State, Firm Explains

The report on town of Menasha sewer problems expected from McMahon Engineering company will not be available until the week of Jan. 18, A. W. Scholl, engineer, said Thursday.

It had been expected between Christmas and New Years, but unexpected complications have forced the firm to visit Madison to learn specific planning procedures, Scholl said.

The sanitary district involves an area south of Appleton, including Valley Fair Shopping center.

The district was ordered by the state board of health in October, 1957, to show satisfactory progress toward solution of Valley Fair's troubles by Dec. 31, 1959. There was a change in town administration this year, Amos Page, town chairman, said, and he was unaware of the state order until September.

Appleton health board members have announced they will press for legal action, because residents in the area have complained about noxious odors during the summer, stemming from effluent poured into the river through a ravine.
